—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 19.

THE Savannah Press says President Coolidge will probably visit Sapelo Island, off the Georgia coast, not far from here, just after Christmas. Howard Coffin has invited him to use the magnificent residence on the 25,000-acre island which Coffin owns.

IF THE President goes he will be glad of it. Georgia will welcome him from one border to the other. He ought to come by motor and see the beautiful state as a closeup.

THE drive would take him through this fine old city. And, at Darien, 90 miles away, reached by as fine a stretch of highway as any on earth, California included, he would stop and muse on vanished greatness. He would pass the Bank of Darien, once the biggest south of Philadelphia, with a capital of $1,000,000, now a tiny country bank of $25,000. Once thousands of ships came to Darien for Georgia pine and cotton, bringing as ballast stone that now lines the shore. Darien, which gave its name to Keats' Darien at Panama, settled by Scotsmen that came first to Georgia, would not let the railroad come in. "The river is good enough" said Darien, and died in spite of its fine harbor.

Wise Savannah that knew better, now has both harbor and railroads.

IT'S impossible to see everything in America, but everyone ought to see Sapelo Island, its beautiful forests, ancient forts, 400 years old, ruins of Spanish missions, of oyster shell masonry 10 feet thick, cells for the monks only five by six feet, fleets of shrimp boats bringing in hundreds of bushels of fish at a load, and Geechee Negroes, possessing their own special language, suspected by other Negroes, "because they talk queer."

THE President, in his walks on the north end of the beautiful island would visit with reverence the graveyard of the Negroes, and admire the practical and religious side of the Negro character. On each of many graves, he would see a lamp, an alarm clock and a cup. The clock is to awaken the spirit at the right time, the lamp to light his way, the cup for drinking after such a long sleep.

ON ONE gravestone, written in the concrete when it was soft, he would read "In Memory of My First Husband, Carl Hilry, Born April 25, 1857, Died September 11th, 1889, age 32. At Rest." On another "Cesare Jackson, He Died in Faith. Sleep On, Son."

MORE than 400,000 new cases of influenza in 20 states, the epidemic moving eastward. The best remedy for influenza is oxygen, fresh air. The blood must fight the germ and oxygen is the food and strength of the blood.

STRANGE is the nature of man. In New York a young man confesses to strangling a 15-year-old girl whom he loved. He says she wanted to kiss him. That is his excuse.

AT BRUNSWICK, Ga., Walter Rawlins, in prison, saw his wife, whose complaint had jailed him for wife-beating. He seized a carving knife, dashed from the prison, overtook his wife, stabbed her several times. His excuse is "I loved my wife so that I would rather see her dead than with somebody else."

THE fair Jessica Brown, a stage beauty, then married to Lord Northesk, yesterday married Mr. Cornelius. Lord Northesk, her retired husband, comes to America led by his ambition to be the fifth husband of Peggy Hopkins Joyce. And so it goes.

HERBERT HOOVER has left Montevideo on the battleship Utah, bound for Rio de Janeiro. Brazil is preparing a great reception.

What probably would interest Mr. Hoover most in Brazil is a gigantic waterfall, with more power than Niagara, far from everywhere, now going to waste.

SCIENCE will find a way to carry that power to places that need it, or industry will carry factories to the power.

And some day airplanes on their way from the North to the South Pole may pick up "wireless power" from Niagara on the Canadian border, more wireless power from the coal mines of Alabama, and another supply from Brazil's big waterfall.

AT EAST LAKE, Ala., a mad dog ran through a school room. Miss Tilman and Miss Ragan, teachers, with presence of mind, ordered the children to stand on their desks, out of the animal's reach, while they seized it with their bare hands and were dangerously bitten. The dog was killed finally by the janitor.

THE same day's news tells of a farmer crossing a field attacked by a savage hog and killed. The animal's tusks ripped open an artery in the farmer's leg. He died in 10 minutes. If anybody kept such a savage beast near children the public would not tolerate it. But any man may keep any sort of savage dog, endangering other men's children, and nothing is done about it, until AFTER the dog has bitten at least one child or adult. There is no responsibility.

MARY HORNYAK MRS. MARY LEWIS

Miss Mary Hornyak, 26, of 153 Pius street, South Side, here tells Mrs. Mary A. Lewis, Brashear Settlement House social worker, how happy she is that Secretary of Labor James J. Davis granted a two-months' stay of the order to deport her to Hungary. Mrs. John M. Phillips, civic and club leader, brought the good news in person.

MOSES RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

Without the formality of a court order Ben L. Moses, former druggist and reputed bootlegger was taken from the county jail where he has been reported ill, to Montefiore Hospital this morning, when his condition suddenly became worse. An operation may be necessary, his physician, Dr. David L. Simons, said.

Warden John McNeil, of the jail, notified United States Attorney John D. Meyer by telephone that Moses was too ill to be cared for properly in jail, and Meyer sanctioned his removal.

A motion for Moses' removal to a hospital, pending before Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, was to have been argued Saturday. He was committed to jail Friday for 60 days after pleading guilty to illegal sale of liquor while proprietor of the Young Drug Company, Center avenue and Craig street.

Trial "Dangerous," Fall's Doctor Says

EL PASO, Tex., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Dr. H. T. Safford, physician to Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, said here yesterday it would be "very dangerous" for Fall to go to Washington this winter to stand trial on bribery charges growing out of the leasing of the Elk Hills Oil Reserve to Edward L. Doheny.

SECRETARY JAMES J. DAVIS

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, Pittsburgh, from Washington telephoned his order for the stay to William Marshall, local immigration inspector.

WOMAN LAWYER IN RUM CASE

Interest in Federal Court today centered in the courtroom of Judge Nelson McVicar, where Miss Ruth Forsht, of Altoona, a member of the Blair county bar, is the defense counsel in a conspiracy case involving alleged violations of the prohibition law. The government is represented by Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans.

Miss Forsht's clients are Harry Miller, former chief of police of Juniata, Pa., W. M. Roland, councilman of Juniata, and his brother, C. R. Roland.

Prohibition Agent James Lewis testified he was conducting an investigation in Juniata and in his operations let it be understood he was after a concession in a nearby park to run a "soft drink" stand.

He said he became acquainted with Miller, then chief of police, and Councilman Roland, through the latter's brother, and they accompanied him to a place where he purchased liquor.

GIBSON'S FOURTH WIFE MAY SUE FOR DIVORCE

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—A tangled matrimonial triangle came to light here today when Mrs. William Preston Gibson, fourth wife of the author and playwright, was reported establishing residence in Reno preparatory to suing for a divorce.

Theodore E. Stegmaier, member of a wealthy Pennsylvania family, who divorced Mrs. Alice Stegmaier last June, naming six co-respondents, is reported planning to marry the fourth Mrs. Gibson.

Mrs. Stegmaier entered no defense, contending that the decree was void in Pennsylvania. She filed a $200,000 alienation of affections suit in New York against Stegmaier's mother, Mrs. George Stegmaier.

GIRL WINS OUSTER DELAY

Instead of finding herself all alone on Christmas Day as a steerage passenger on an ocean liner at sea, Miss Mary Hornyak, 26, crippled Hungarian girl, of 153 Pius street, South Side, will have a happy Yuletide in Pittsburgh with her mother and friends.

At 11 o'clock this morning she was resigned to leave for New York this afternoon in compliance with a deportation order from the Department of Immigration.

Her despondent resignation turned to joy a few minutes later while packing her trunk, when word was brought to her by Mrs. John M. Phillips, civic and club leader, that Secretary of Labor James J. Davis had stayed the deportation order by telephone to William Marshall, local immigration officer.

DELAYED TWO MONTHS

The stay is for two months, during which time Mrs. Phillips will make arrangements for the girl's mother to return with her to the old country. The deportation order was made on the ground that the girl became a public charge within five years of her entry into this country.

Mrs. Phillips has appealed to Davis, President Coolidge and Senator David A. Reed, in an eleventh hour effort to halt deportation today. Secretary Davis said the stay was only temporary and was granted to give the mother an opportunity to go with her daughter.

"I am very happy over the way things have turned out," said Mary when Mrs. Phillips told her of Davis' action. "I only hope that they will now leave me have peace. I don't care if they send me back. All I want to know is that they either send me back or let me stay here definitely. For four years my life has been made miserable by their telling me at

Vestris Sister Ship To Get Severe Test

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(INS.)—Steps will be taken to give the steamship Vauban, sister ship of the ill-fated Vestris, an inclining test, D. N. Hoover, head of the United States Steamboat Inspection Service, informed Representative La Guardia, of New York, today.

The inclining test, said to be the most severe test of a steamship's stability, was demanded by La Guardia after the Vestris sank off the Virginia Capes with a loss of more than 100 lives.

La Guardia said he believed both the Vestris and Vauban to be obsolete types.

$5,000 Rum Seized On County Property

When prohibition agents confiscated an assortment of whisky, gin, champagne, brandy, wine, beer and ale valued at $5,000 in a raid last night, they invaded property owned by Allegheny County, it developed at a meeting of the County Commissioners today.

The raid was made in a three-story building at 545 Fourth avenue. Michael J. Rittmeyer, reputed proprietor; George J. Rittmeyer, William Webb and Joseph T. Burns were arrested. The building is one of those which will be razed to furnish the site of the new county office building.

BRITISH HOPES FOR STRICKEN KING RISE

By HARRY R. FLORY,
International News Service.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Another favorable bulletin on the condition of King George was issued by the royal physicians today.

The text was:

"The King has had a restful night. The slight improvement noted yesterday continues."

The optimistic tone of the bulletin served to further strengthen the general feeling throughout England that His Majesty had passed the worst part of his illness and was now definitely on the road to recovery.

The King's condition is admittedly still serious, however.

It now appears that His Majesty's recovery depends almost wholly upon his ability to maintain his strength. To this end, ray treatments were again administered early last night.

Although four weeks have passed since the beginning of the King's illness with no definite movement towards recovery yet reported, leading newspapers here today assumed that the worst was over.

Pointing to the fact that His Majesty has battled through an extremely bad period during the last few days apparently without aid of sedatives, they advised their readers to go ahead with their Christmas preparations without undue fears.

BILL TO ASK BLUE LAW BALLOT

Voters of Pennsylvania would be given an opportunity to express themselves on the ancient "blue laws," by the terms of a bill which Assemblyman Michael M. Musmanno, of the Twelfth District, today announced he would introduce to the State Legislature next month.

Musmanno, a new assemblyman from the Twelfth District, hopes to place the bill before his colleagues early in the 1929 session.

LOCAL OPTION BASIS

The bill, if passed by the Legislature, would allow Sunday sports and amusements in any township, borough or ward in which a majority of the voters favored such activities.

If, for example, a majority of the voters in the Fourth Ward, which includes Forbes Field, favored Sunday baseball, that sport would be permissable there, although the voters of the adjoining Fifth Ward could continue the ban on such activities in their area simply by voting down the proposition.

15 PER CENT PETITIONS

Musmanno's bill would require that 15 per cent of the voters in any of these districts petition their County Commissioners to place this referendum on the ballot. For each item—baseball, football, golf, theaters, etc.—there must be a separate petition and a separate vote.

The voters of one district could accept Sunday moving pictures but reject Sunday baseball, or vice versa.

The Rev. Dr. Robert M. Blackwood, secretary of the Allegheny County Sabbath Association, said today: "We'll oppose that bill."

Wanted $10,000 Mate; Weds Phone Lineman

READING, Pa., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Cathryn Heckman, of Stony Creek, who asked the newspapers last February to say she would marry a man with $10,000 to enable her to support her aged mother and stepfather, is now a bride.

The girl received many offers of marriage last winter, but none with the hoped-for $10,000.

RAPS MELLON'S INCOME TAX PRACTICES

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon was charged in the House today by Representative John N. Garner (Dem.), of Texas, acting minority leader, with an effort to bring about repeal of the graduated income tax and the inheritance tax.

"I deliberately charge," said Garner, "that he is seeking to make the administration of this law so disagreeable to the American people that they will seek some other system of taxation."

Garner asserted that through settlements made by Mellon more than $65,000,000 in tax refunds was being given subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation during the present fiscal year.

Representative Garner made a spirited attack on the Secretary of the Treasury, accusing him of making misleading and what seemed to be "false" statements of the condition of the nation's finances.

Last summer, he said, the Treasury had estimated there would be a $94,000,000 deficit at the end of the year. At the opening of this session of Congress the President has estimated at $37,000,000 surplus, "and six days later we were informed that we face a deficit."

Starving Harrisburg Boy Collapses in N.Y.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—John Snyder, a 22-year-old steel worker of State street, Harrisburg, Pa., who came to New York with five cents on Saturday looking for work, collapsed on a street late last night and was removed to a hospital suffering from starvation. He said he had had nothing to eat since his arrival except a cruller.

CRUISERS BILL ALSO DELAYED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Postponement of consideration of the Kellogg anti-war treaty, reported today to the Senate, until after the Christmas recess, has been decided upon by Senator Borah, in charge of the treaty fight, after consultation with leaders.

Congress will recess from December 22 to January 3, it was decided today.

After formally putting the pact before the Senate with the indorsement of the Foreign Relations Committee, Chairman Borah canvassed the legislative situation and reached his decision.

BORAH EXPLAINS

"I am not disposed to take the treaty up," he announced, "until there is prospect of getting somewhere with it. There is no opportunity to get action on the pact before the Christmas recess and any attempt in that direction wuld be mere display."

With the Senate involved in a stubborn contest against the pending labor bill, there seemed also to be no prospect that action could be taken before the holidays on the naval construction bill. The Navy bill comes up next under the program of the Republican steering committee, but there is a possibility that both the cruiser bill and the treaty may be considered at the same time.

Chinaware Meeting Postponed to Jan. 5

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—(INS.)—The meeting of directors of the American Chinaware Corporation and subsidiary companies, scheduled to have been held here this week, will be held in Chicago January 5, it was announced today. The meeting was postponed because auditors of the concern were unable to present a complete report of the corporation's business at this time.

"FLU" HERE DECLINING, PHYSICIANS REPORT

The number of persons in Pittsburgh ill from so-called flu apparently was decreasing today. Dr. R. Walter Zulauf, superintendent of the Allegheny General Hospital, said the number of cases being admitted to the hospital had decreased.

There was a decrease also in the number of telephone inquiries for suggestions for treatment of colds and other conditions generally described as "flu."

Dr. Harry Burns, school medical director, said illness was on the wane in the schools. The number of absentees was decreasing, he said.

Dr. J. C. Conover, county medical director, said he believed the "flu wave" was receding, but that he had no figures to prove his assertion, since the illness is not reportable.

Illness attributed to "flu" has delayed courts here. Nine cases out of 45 were postponed today, owing to the illness of witnesses or attorneys; 11 were postponed yesterday, and 19 were postponed Monday. About a fourth of the members of the new jury panel were reported absent on account of illness.

"HANDS OFF" HELD PLAN OF HOOVER

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—La Epoca, a newspaper which is generally regarded as a spokesman for President Yrigoyen, said today that Herbert Hoover, in conversing with the Argentine President, told him that in the future the United States Government would never intervene in the internal affairs of other countries, that it would respect their sovereignty and would recognize their rights to manage their own problems.

President Yrigoyen was quoted as saying that he believed that Mr. Hoover was not in accord with the ideas of President Coolidge.

COOLIDGE VIEWS QUOTED

The newspaper said that the subject of intervention by the United States in the affairs of other American nations was brought up by Senor Yrigoyen. Mr. Hoover explained that intervention by the United States had not been undertaken with the design of protecting American economic interests but was for safeguarding the lives of American citizens.

President Yrigoyen was understood then to have referred to views of intervention expressed by President Coolidge in his speeches and Mr. Hoover was said to have replied that Mr. Coolidge had been obliged to proceed as he had done in view of the circumstances of the individual cases.

There will be a motor trip to Petropolis, the summer capital, which is 2,600 feet above sea level. The American Chamber of Commerce at Sao Paulo, in the coffee district, is sending a large delegation to Rio Janeiro to greet the President-elect.

LAKE CARGO PROTESTS UP TODAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Representatives of Southern coal mine operators who met here to consider a prospective renewal of the contest over Lake Cargo coal rates decided to defer the adoption of their future policy until the railroads concerned have agreed upon their course of action.

A railroad conference is set for today.

James D. Francis, chairman of the Southern operator's committee, said after yesterday's session that his group had obtained a legal report on the status of the lake cargo matter and would await the result of communication with the railroads before making any public announcement of the policy it may adopt.

Northern and Southern railroads have attempted to compromise the lake cargo rate situation by an arrangement of schedules going into effect January 1, under which the Pittsburgh producers will be given lake cargo rates 35 cents per ton below lake cargo rates on Kentucky Tennessee and West Virginia shipments.

The Pittsburgh operators, however, have filed with the Commission a protest against the contemplated rate adjustment, asking for a greater differential in favor of their product.

The railroad conference in New York today will be attended by traffic representatives, who may decide to counter the Pittsburgh protest.

TRY TO LINK RING WITH KILLING

By DAVID P. SENTNER.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—The trial of Joseph Unger, alias Klein, on charges of trafficking in narcotics growing out of dope seizures totaling $2,000,000, got under way in Federal Court today before Judge Francis Winslow.

Immediately after court was called it became apparent that the government would attempt to link Unger with the discovery of $5,000,000 worth of drugs on a Hoboken pier yesterday and the Arnold Rothstein murder mystery. A total of $8,000,000 in drugs have been seized during the past few weeks in New York and Chicago.

Headed by United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, the government had marshaled all its heavy legal forces, including Deputy Attorneys Blake and Sylvester, experts in dope cases, to prosecute Unger.

ROTHSTEIN'S "SHADE"

Selection of a jury occupied the first few hours of the trial. Both sides questioned talesmen minutely, one of the questions put to each of them by Judge Winslow being: "Did you know Arnold Rothstein?"

Unger was arrested in Buffalo after federal authorities had seized $2,000,00 worth of dope, acting on a tip in Rothstein's private papers, it was said.

By tracing a telephone call made by Unger, authorities discovered another trunk containing $1,000,000 worth of dope in Chicago.

Yesterday's seizure arrived from France on the S. S. Rochambeau and was consigned to a man named "Klein."

The jury was completed before noon and United States Attorney Tuttle made his opening address.

He said he would prove that Unger telephoned to Mrs. June Boyd, in Chicago, in whose apartment $1,000,000 in drugs were found.

SAVE-UNIONIST SUITS AGAINST POLICE DRAWN

Civil and criminal actions against all officers who participated in the arrest of Patrick Toohey and John Brophy, Save-the-Union leaders in the recent coal strike, are in course of preparation by Attorney Henry Ellenbogen, he announced today. The state yesterday dropped the riot charges against the two labor leaders and immediately Corporal John Onko, state trooper, was arrested on a charge of criminal assault preferred by Toohey.

Attorneys Arthur G. Hays and Clarence Darrow, brought here by the American Civil Liberties Union to defend Toohey and Brophy, conferred with Attorney Ellenbogen after the collapse of the case and it was announced all who participated in the arrests would be prosecuted for false arrest and malicious prosecution. Darrow and Hays turned over the preparation of the suits to Ellenbogen before they left Pittsburgh last night.

RAISING OF SUNKEN SUB PROVES RESCUE POSSIBLE

International News Service.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 19.—Seventy-two hours after it was purposely sunk off Block Island for experimental purposes, the submarine S-4 was afloat today, a feat which, had it been accomplished a year ago, would probably have saved the lives of some 40 men imprisoned on the same submarine when it was rammed and sunk in the mud off Provincetown, Mass.

Salvagers aboard the submarine tenders Falcon and Chewink late yesterday succeeded in raising the bow of the S-4, but the stern was still buried in the mud.

The raising of the bow from the water would have permitted the rescue of at least part of a crew, according to Navy observers.

Today the salvage crews returned to the scene and in less than two hours the stern was brought to the surface.

The lifting hooks, attached to pad eyes constructed on the side of the submarine, have proven their practicability, according to the observers. The hooks have a lifting capacity of 160 tons whereas the weight of the submarine is slightly under 100 tons.

DEPORTATION OF GIRL HALTED

times that I could stay and then again that I was to be deported."

Mrs. Phillips contends that the girl has been a victim of circumstances since she came to America and that she became a charge on the county for a short time through a misunderstanding.

"Three years after coming to this city," Mrs. Phillips said, "Mary suffered injuries when she fell on her way to church. She developed tuberculosis on the hip, but she has been self-supporting and at times was supported by her mother."

BLAMES DOCTOR

The civic leader believes the present action is due, in a measure, to a case in which a doctor at Mayview, where the girl was confined for a time, was involved. She contends that the doctor declared the girl to have tendencies toward insanity because she repulsed his advances. The doctor was discharged shortly after she investigated the case.

Records in the office of Immigration Inspector Marshall show that Miss Hornyak was a public charge in four hospitals since her arrival in this country. He explained:

"Because she was a public charge within five years of her entry, she was ordered deported. She was a patient at Mayview, St. Joseph's, South Side and West Penn hospitals. Her tubercular hip started in the old country. She was examined by three immigration inspectors who recommended deportation, but the Department of Labor postponed the order to see if her condition improved. The order was finally signed on June 2, 1928."

Mrs. Mary A. Lewis, social worker of the Brashear Settlement House, who in the past has ministered to the needs of the girl, will provide the girl with such things as she and her mother may need for their ocean voyage.

OHIOPYLE SUMMER HOME PROFFERED PRESIDENT

By JOHN P. COWAN,
Staff Correspondent

OHIOPYLE, Pa., Dec. 19.—Very respectfully, but none the less urgently, the citizens of this famous old Sunday excursion town offer their community to the nation for a permanent summer home of the President of the United States.

Here the residents promise future chief magistrates the wholesome balm of complete solitude, cool mountain air, the fragrance of rhododendrons and the endless music of the blithe and boisterous Youghiogheny as it leaps over the mossy rocks and sings its way down the valley.

"Take the mountains with their rocky palisades, wild flowers and stately trees," say the Ohiopyles in effect. "Take the river with its picturesque waterfalls and the tunes of its gentle eddies, and take thetown and convert it into a model suburb for the presidential neighbors."

WIRE PRESIDENT

Tremendously in earnest, a committee of the Ohiopyle borough council sent a long telegram to President Coolidge, commending him for his summer home plan and putting forward in eloquent language the advantages of their town. "Very respectfully" they called the matter to Mr. Coolidge's attention and then pointed out that Ohiopyle is less than six hours from Washington by rail or motor, is far removed from the beaten paths of traffic and yet is easily accessible to Washington and all the large cities of the East. They were enthusiastic in their praise of the natural beauty of the place and recalled the fact that Ohiopyle (the falls of the Yough) was first visited by George Washington and described in his journal May 21, 1754.

The telegram was sent by Burgess W. G. Corruston and these members of Ohiopyle council: President W. S. Rafferty, Hampton Potter, Jesse Hall, J. M. Wildy, Russell Davis and Charles Holt. It was followed today by a practical effort when the citizens asked Congressman S. A. Kendall, of Somerset, to bring their invitation to the proper authorities in Congress. To clinch their argument they submitted architect's plans and drawings for a summer home with all enhancement of elaborate landscaping.

It's Just One Twin After Another in This Family

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(INS.)—Four pairs of twins in seven years was the record proudly pointed to by Grover C. Robey, of Anacosta, today. The last pair arrived yesterday, and mother and children are doing well.

The Robeys were married in 1906, and for the first few years the babies arrived singly. In a thoughtless moment eight years ago, Robey ordered twins. The stork delivered, and interpreted it as a standing order.

The roster follows:

George, 20; Grover, Jr., 19; Alice, 16; Leonard, 12; Gilbert, 10; Helen and Linwood, 7; Grace, 5; Paul and Pauline, 3; Josephine and Genevieve, 18 months, and Clarence and Constance, who arrived yesterday.

CLOUDS DELAY WILKINS

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS,
Commander of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition.

(Copyright, 1928, by the New York American and Universal Service, Inc.)

DECEPTION ISLAND (Antarctica), Dec. 18.—(Via whaler Hektoria and KUP, San Francisco Examiner wireless station.)—Patience upon occasions may be virtue. We find it an exasperating necessity.

Clouds obscured the southern sky tonight, making it impossible to proceed far with our plans. We therefore spent the time repeatedly checking the engines of our plane.

Another activity that kept us busy for many hours was the clearing of a runway from which we can take off on wheels with a fair load in the event our seaplane fails us. The members of the crew pitched in with picks, shovels and wheelbarrows willingly, and enjoyed a good bit of exercise in this duty.

LATIN WAR CLOUDS FADE AS MEDIATORS PARLEY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(INS.)—The Pan-American conference special mediation committee got into full stride today to conciliate Bolivia and Paraguay. The possibility of war appeared definitely removed as the delegates hailed with joy the developments of yesterday.

Dr. Victor M. Maurtua, chairman of the special committee, said his committee probably would submit one or more tentative methods of procedure to a plenary session of the conference. The plenary session probably will be held this afternoon.

Both Bolivia and Paraguay probably will be asked to withdraw their troops from the disputed chaco boreal while the conciliation proceedings are in progress.

The Washington conference, Dr. Maurtua said, would confine its efforts to conciliating the two countries on the border incidents which began December 6 with the capture of the Bolivian Fort Vanguardia by Paraguayan forces and the subsequent attacks on other forts by Bolivian soldiers.

No efforts will be made to settle the boundary dispute of 50 years' standing. This will be left probably to the joint commission which has been meeting intermittently under the auspices of the Argentine government at Buenos Aires.

Report Chamberlain Slated for Peerage

LONDON, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—The Evening Star says there are strong rumors on Conservative circles that Sir Austen Chamberlain, secretary for Foreign Affairs will not seek re-election in West Birmingham in the next general election. It is possible Sir Austen may be elevated to the peerage.

PITTSBURGH POLICEMEN GET RAYS THAT AIDED KING

King George, who has been fighting a valiant battle against a lung infection, probably owes his life today in no small measure to one of the twentieth century's greatest electro-therapeutical inventions—the ultra-violet ray.

Recent cable dispatches from London reported that the King had rallied considerably after his physicians had given him a series of ray body treatments and local applications to his lungs. The rays, according to the physicians, had a two-fold effect upon the monarch—producing beneficial sleep and healing the infected cavities.

SAFETY MEN GET IT

What benefits King George has derived from ultra-violet rays, members of Pittsburgh's police force and firefighters are deriving daily in even larger measure through the ultra-violet ray equipment of Dr. D. E. Sable, chief surgeon of the Pittsburgh police and fire departments. Dr. Sable's equipment is one of the most modern and complete in the city. He is regarded as authority on ultra-violet treatments.

Dr. Sable described ultra-violet ray as "an invisible ray much like the X-ray." He further explained:

"It is called ultra-violet because it lies just beyond the violet of the visible spectrum. What one sees when looking at a lighted quartz mercury burner is not ultra-violet ray, but the violet, indigo, blue, yellow and some of the other visible rays. It is produced in the following manner: The passage of an undirectional electric current through the vapor of mercury, enclosed in a quartz vacuum tube, produces an intense illumination, which provides a much greater quantity and quality of ultra-violet energy than that issued from any other known source.

OUTSHINES SUN

"The nearest competitor to the modern mercury vapor arc lamp is the sun. Sunlight, however, under even optimum climatic conditions, produces only 7 per cent ultra-violet, while the specrum emitted by the late model unviarc equipment yields 28 per cent ultra-violet."

The treatment which, Dr. Sable believes, was given the King, is the same as he is daily called upon to administer to policemen, firemen and private patients for all sorts of diseases. He claims that virtually all human ailments can be successfully treated with ultra-violet rays.

Dr. Sable is making the ultra-violet ray treatment more available daily to members of the police and fire departments. He is treating as many as 50 men daily at times.

ILLEGAL "FIRING" MAKES CITY PAY DOUBLE SALARY

Two men will get $868 as May to December salary each for the same city job as a result of City Council's action yesterday in passing a resolution to untangle the mixup caused by the Civil Service Commission reinstating A. L. Nolan, discharged at the order of Mayor Kline, to the city payroll.

Nolan, an inspector in the division of weights and measures, was told by Murray G. Livingston, his department chief, on election day last May "to go home and stay home."

At a hearing before the Civil Service Commission two weeks ago, Livingston testified he acted on orders from Mayor Kline, who resented Nolan's candidate in the McManus-O'Malley fight for Republican chairman of the Second Ward.

The commission ordered Nolan restored to the payroll and it was generally accepted that he would be entitled to full back pay.

After Nolan's dismissal, Mayor Kline gave the job to George Myers, of the Thirteenth Ward. Myers never drew pay, because the Civil Service Commission ruled no vacancy existed.

Council passed the resolution authorizing pay for both men as the only solution of the problem.

Mayor Kline since has discharged Livingston "for the good of the service."

MRS. KRESGE'S MISSING DIVORCE FILE REAPPEARS

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—As mysteriously as they disappeared from the Monroe county courthouse, the records of the libel in divorce of John Swain against his former wife, Clara, who is now the wife of Sebastian S. Kresge, have returned to their official place. Although reticent regarding details of the new development in the unusual case, courthouse officials announced yesterday that the papers had reappeared.

The return of the court records was made known about the same time that the hearing of H. M. Schechter, Portland, Pa., hotel man, who is charged with abstracting the papers from the courthouse, was postponed. Schechter was to have been arraigned before Justice of the Peace R. R. Coolbaugh, but the commonwealth announced that one of its witnesses, a New York City newspaperman, was ill and unable to appear. No new date was set for the hearing.

Schechter, who is alleged to have offered for sale in New York the vanishing divorce libel, has been held under $2,000 bail.

Immediately upon the reappearance of the missing records, Forrest J. Garvine, former district attorney, who is acting as counsel for Schechter, petitioned Judge S. E. Shull to have the papers impounded. The petition was granted and the papers have been turned over to District Attorney Ira A. Labar with the understanding that they will be used by the commonwealth in presenting their case against Schechter.

HONEYMOONERS ON MELLON YACHT

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(INS.)—A palatial yacht, with themselves the only passengers, is the scene of the honeymoon of Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., international polo star, and his bride, the former Mrs. Alexander Laughlin, Jr., daughter of William L. Mellon, Pittsburgh millionaire.

They were married here last Saturday a a quiet wedding ceremony in a hotel in the presence of a small group of friends and relatives. Among those who came to New York for the wedding were Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, and uncle of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. William L. Mellon, parents of the bride; John F. Walton, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. H. R. Hilliard, of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Sr., and Francis C. E. Hitchcock.

Immediately after the ceremony, the bridal couple left on the honeymoon. Their bridal yacht is the Vagabondia, owned by the bride's father. Its luxuries include even fire places, and it is probable that the Yule log will be turned therein. The yacht will take the bridal couple to California and the romantic beaches of Honolulu. A stopover will be made on the Pacific coast, where Hitchcock will play in several polo games.

The institution receives no help from the state, county or city and is kept up through contributions alone.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—When the city council next meets one of the first orders under the heading of new business will be the proposal of John D. Rockefeller to build and equip a $30,000 fire station, provided the town agrees to pay operating expenses and employ two firemen. The proposal of the oil king was announced yesterday as the latest development of a plan to restore one of the oldest communities in the United States to its former colonial estate.

DELAY NAMING STATE COURT JUDGE

The vacancy on the Superior Court bench, for which Mayor Charles H. Kline has been mentioned, is not likely to be filled until Gov. John S. Fisher completes his message to the Legislature, which convenes January 1, and may be held back until the state budget is completed, according to reports from Harrisburg today.

The names of all prominent judges in Western Pennsylvania have been suggested and, according to the Governor, "all are under consideration." He added that "no haste" is needed in filling the position.

The attitude about the Capitol, according to stories today, is that the position belongs to Western Pennsylvania, but not to Pittsburgh, because Judge William D. Porter of this city is president judge of the Superior Court. Should the Governor take that attitude, Mayor Kline would not get the post.

Among those outside of Pittsburgh mentioned as possibilities are Judges James A. McLaughrey, of Mercer; J. Frank Graff, of Armstrong; Attorney General Thomas J. Baldridge, of Blair, and James I. Brownson, of Washington county.

Commissioners Can't Aid Fire Company

The County Commissioners today informed W. L. Hooks, chief of the Community Volunteer Fire Department at Valencia that they are without legal authority to make an appropriation to this company, although they recognized its valuable service to the community and the county.

Hooks wrote that when he became chief he had "inherited some poor hose," and that $1,000 additional is needed for better equipment.

ANOTHER CLUE IN FEARN CASE EXPLODES

CANTON, O., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Authorities investigating the deaths of Vernard E. Fearn, 35, Canton coal dealer, and Mrs. Margaret Heldman, 21, today continue their search for details of the past life of Wilbur Heldman, husband of the dead woman.

Heldman, who is being held as a material witness, said his wife killed herself after confessing that she had shot Fearn to death.

A clew that led to the questioning of an Akron woman last night was found valueless by Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective, who has been placed in full charge of the investigation. Mrs. David Beem, who runs a rooming house at Akron, said a woman she believed to be Mrs. Heldman was at her home the night Fearn was slain, but Slater placed little credence in her identification.

ROTHENBERG UP FOR O. K. SOON

Council probably will consider the appointment of Leo Rothenberg as police magistrate at the regular meeting Monday, unless that session is postponed on account of the Christmas holiday season.

With one exception, the councilmen who will vote this time upon the confirmation of Rothenberg voted upon his appointment when he was named magistrate in 1924.

The exception is Harry A. Little, who was not in Council at the time. The vote at that meeting was unanimous in favor of confirming Rothenberg's appointment.

NEW FLU CASES IN U. S. TOTAL 400,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Influenza is believed to be continuing its spread eastward along lines of traffic.

This announcement by the Public Health Service was accompanied by the estimate that there were at least 400,000 new cases during the past week.

Along with this went an announcement from the Census Bureau that reports from 55 cities showed 379 deaths from the disease in the week ended December 15, as compared with 284 deaths in the same cities the previous week. An increase in the country's death rate over that of last year also was shown.

The estimate of 400,000 new cases was based on information from 29 states and New York City where 80,837 cases were actually reported. Of the 78 cities included in the Census Bureau's report, 23 had not been heard from.

There was nothing in the announcements yesterday to indicate that the disease, regarded as mild in form in comparison with other outbreaks, had changed in nature, though it was said that another report on the situation was in preparation.

In Illinois, Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, director of the State Department of Public Health, advised against closing schools, business houses and theaters, saying that there was no reason for public alarm.

SECOND ARREST FOLLOWS KILLING OVER ELECTION BET

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Ben C. Richards, Jr., prominent Dallas businessman, was arrested today on two charges of forgery in connection with a $1,000-election bet which already has caused the death of one man and murder charges against another.

Richards wagered $1,000 with V. Ray Adams, of Dallas, that Senator Earle B. Mayfield would defeat Tom Connally in the United States senatorial primary.

Orville Mathews, a banker, held stakes.

Connally won and Adams went to collect the money, but was told it had been paid to a "Colonel B. Vest, of Waco" upon credentials which Adams charged were forged.

In the argument Adams shot and killed Mathews.

The complaints against Richards charge he did "unlawfully write the name of Clyde R. Vest" on the back of two cashier's checks that figured in the bet.

Richards was arrested at his home early today and posted $7,500 bond.

GIRL SUICIDE'S BODY CLAIMED

The body of Miss Eleanor Greylock, 26, who, police say, ended her life by swallowing poison in her home, 312 Sampson street, was claimed by her brother, Joseph Greylock, of Ingomar, last night. The brother identified the body at the morgue, where it was taken yesterday. Greylock announced that funeral services would be held at the home and that interment would be made in Charleroi.

Edward Hlavaty, 28, of 2636 East street, told police, they say, that the woman had chided him for not calling on her Sunday. She told him that he would never see her again. Unable to get her on the telephone yesterday, Hlavati, police say, went to her apartment. He found her door locked, and was forcing a window when Miss Greylock drank the poison, according to his story.

HUNT FOR GEM ROBBERS FAILS

City detectives today were busy running down "tips," most of them from anonymous sources, in their search for the two armed bandits who late Monday night held up Unger's jewelry store, at 976 Liberty avenue, and escaped with jewelry valued at $75,000.

Telephone calls to detective headquarters sent the sleuths to various sections of the city and county. Last night the sleuths made futile hunts for the robbers in Millvale and Rankin.

It was pointed out by detectives that identification of the pair would be difficult since the bandits covered their faces with blue bandanna handkerchiefs when they held up five persons in the store. Numerous police characters are under surveillance by detectives who thus far are apparently without clues.

Six Seconds For Safety

"It is better to wait a moment at a crossing than forever in a cemetery."

So says the Pittsburgh Motor Club in its safety campaign to keep the sorrow of death and injury from Pittsburgh homes this Christmas.

The campaign is carried on through the medium of safety "wise cracks," which may be easily remembered during that important six seconds necessary to prevent an accident.

Remember that 25,775 people were killed in this country last year in auto accidents.

Spray the Nose and Throat

Prevent Attacks of Colds and "Flu"

USE

NOZOL

To Keep the Nostrils Clear and Healthy

"Spray the nostrils and throat with an oil to keep them lubricant. 'Flu' and grippe germs cannot take hold in membranes that are well lubricated" ... such is the advice being given out by leading health authorities.

And for this purpose all urge the use of a highly effective preparation... NOZOL.

Spray or drop a little Nozol in each nostril and the throat two or three times a day. The antiseptic oils cling to the linings, protecting you against the germs.

Nozol costs but little and you should get a bottle today at your druggist. Take no chances, particularly with the present prevalence of flu.

A Frank Statement Concerning the Widespread

Use Of AL-14 In Combatting the Flu Epidemic

The knowledge that has become fairly widespread that leading corporations, banks and other business organizations are insisting that their employees use AL-14 to prevent attacks of colds, grippe and influenza has brought forth many confusing statements regarding this remarkable discovery. A statement as to actual conditions seems imperative.

What AL-14 Is

Hospitals, physicians and leading medical authorities are fairly well agreed that as long as the body is kept in alkaline condition, it is almost impossible for cold germs to take hold. AL-14 is composed of alkaline salts which, if they were present in the proper proportions in the human body, would make you practically immune from colds. These alkaline salts are carefully compounded in the proper proportion and come to you in sealed packages.

What AL-14 Does

Hundreds of prominent people will tell you that AL-14 is the most effective cold preparation ever developed. They will tell you how they use one or two doses of AL-14 daily throughout these dangerous months to fight off cold germs. They know that if once the cold takes hold that even then nothing is so effective as AL-14. Druggists and physicians are recommending AL-14 for at last they have a preparation for colds which they know will produce prompt results.

The Course to Follow

If you are in good shape, take AL-14 twice a day, once in the morning and again just after dinner in the evening. See that every member of your family does the same. You will find that in most cases this will be sufficient to ward off attacks. If colds have developed, consult a physician. Start taking AL-14—stop eating, arrange to take complete rest—drink plenty of orange and lemon juice.

A Word to Employers Who Cannot Afford to Have Their Key Men Sick

We will be glad to tell you the experiences of other employers who for over five years now have kept their sales or office force in first class condition during the periods when colds have hit heavily. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure and no better insurance can you have than that your key men are protected by the regular use of AL-14.

COUNTY CAUCUS CALLED FOR FRIDAY

The biennial caucus of the Allegheny county legislative delegation will be held at 7 o'clock Friday evening in the Law Library, City-County Building, according to a call issued today by Republican County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong.

In addition to the 27 members and five Senators, invitations were sent to Senator David A. Reed, Mayor Charles H. Kline, former State Chairman W. L. Mellon, ward chairmen, city and county officials and other leaders.

The chairman of the delegation will be elected at the meeting and it is possible that the members will indorse candidates for speaker of the House and committee chairmanships. Joseph C. Marcus was chairman last session.

While the speaker has not yet been slated, reports in political circles indicate that the choice may be Representative Aaron B. Hess, veteran Lancaster member, who has announced his candidacy in telegrams to his colleagues.

DR. EARHART ENTHUSIASTIC OVER CAROL BROADCAST

HEARST PAPERS' YULE PROGRAM WINS PRAISE

Dr. Will Earhart, director of music in the Pittsburgh schools, compliments the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and the Hearst newspapers on their plan to broadcast Christmas carols next Monday night.

After reviewing the program which will come to Pittsburghers through Station KDKA, from 11 o'clock until midnight, Christmas Eve, Dr. Earhart said:

"You are to be congratulated upon the radio program which the Hearst newspapers have planned to broadcast over KDKA on Christmas Eve. Either Dr. Cadman, Father Finn, Cesar Cui, or Trinity chimes alone would be sufficient to enhance the beautiful significance of that hour. The three are sufficient to fulfill all hopes.

"And in addition be congratulated the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph on the plan to issue in Monday evening's paper the printed words of the carols that will be sung, so that the hundreds of thousands of families of this district may gather around the radio and sing with the choristers.

State Troopers Take New Posts

MAYOR WALKER HAILS CAROL SERVICE

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Mayor James J. Walker, of New York City, is particularly enthusiastic over the plan of the Hearst newspapers for a nation-wide radio broadcast of Christmas carols. He said:

"Thank God that amid the foibles and fancies of a cynical world, the spirit of Christmas still lives. May our people of every race and color, regardless of how they indicate their reverence for the God of us all, return for this happy season through faith, fancy and romance, to the tender and loving memories of childhood. The nationwide radio broadcast sponsored by the Hearst newspapers on Christmas Eve is a wonderful achievement; the adaptation of our modern scientific advancement to the age-old spirit of Christmas.

"May the voices of the Paulist Choir be heard at the firesides on the farms, in the homes of our teeming cities and find there the reunion of families scattered far and wide. May the voice of listeners the true meaning of the Christmas message. May the sweet chimes of Trinity Church bring us all back in thought and prayer to the stable at Bethlehem and instill in us all the spirit of the Christmas star—'Peace on Earth—Good Will to Men.'"

COOLIDGE MAY TAKE HOLIDAY TRIP SOUTH

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—The holiday spirit this early has reached through the massive iron fence which surrounds the White House and President and Mrs. Coolidge, like the rest of America's millions, are bestirring themselves with preparations for the yuletide season.

With Christmas just one week away, it became known yesterday that the chief executive and the first lady might slip away from the capital for a sojourn over the holidays in the warmer climate of the Georgia Coast. While this, however, is undecided, the two have made definite plans for Christmas Eve.

The White House Christmas Day program still is undecided, depending on whether Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will accept the invitation of Howard E. Coffin, to visit his island retreat off the Georgia Coast.

Should the trip be carried out there is a possibility Mr. Coolidge might be out of the city over New Years and thus forgo the usual White House reception on that day.

Sawdust Trail Guides Report Work Slack

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 19.—Unemployment among evangelists "has reached serious proportions, and something must be done to enlist the sympathy of the bishops, presiding elders and ministers to open the doors of the churches to us," is the belief of the Rev. John Patty, of Chattanooga.

Fear for the future of those engaged in evangelical work was expressed by Mr. Patty in an address before the general conference of evangelists of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which opened here yesterday.

"Unlike the ministers with pastorates," he said, "we are entirely on our own resources, depending on infrequent calls from pastors for our daily bread."

JUDGE TO SAY IF RUM BUYING IS WITHIN LAW

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Federal Judge William H. Kirkpatrick today awaited the filing of briefs in the government's prosecution of a buyer of liquor.

Alfred E. Norris, New York broker, is charged conjointly with Joel D. Keeper, so-called "public headleager," with conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

At the conclusion of the trial yesterday, and after government and defense attorneys had argued for nearly three hours, Judge Kirkpatrick directed them to file briefs because the case involves many far-reaching questions from the innocence or guilt of the defendant, Norris.

In pleading not guilty to the "conspiracy" charge, attorneys for Norris declared that the Eighteenth Amendment does not provide for the prosecution of the retail purchaser of liquor and that the government is seeking to enforce what is not law. The trial is the government's first attempt here to punish those who buy liquor for their use, by charging conspiracy with bootleggers to transport liquor.

"The Department of Justice has never recommended that the Volstead act be changed to make the purchase of liquor a crime," defense counsel argued. "The legislative intent of the Eighteenth Amendment and the prohibition enforcement act was not to make the purchase of liquor a crime. This attempt to stretch the facts cannot succeed."

DENVER, Col., Dec. 19.—(INS.)—An earthquake of estimated second degree intensity was recorded on the seismograph at Regis College here today. The first shock occurred at 5:28 a. m. Father W. A. Foresta said the quake was approximately 8,000 miles from Denver.

BOULDER DAM TO GO QUICKLY TO COOLIDGE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Only President Coolidge's signature remains to complete the federal government approval of Boulder Dam.

Within the next few days, the Swing-Johnson bill will be laid on the Chief Executive's desk with every prospect that he will sign it and thus formally launch the greatest internal development since the construction of the Panama Canal.

The measure received the final indorsement of Congress yesterday after a hectic parliamentary skirmish that served as a fitting climax to the seven long years of legislative warfare that has marked its course.

By a vote of 166 to 122, with the opposition stubbornly contesting every inch of the ground, the House agreed to the Senate amendments to the Swing-Johnson bill and thus avoided the necessity of sending it to conference.

SURE OF APPROVAL

Because of the support which the administration has given the measure, it is considered virtually certain that President Coolidge will sign the bill and thus assure the project's undertaking.

Every effort will be made to have the Boulder Dam bill on the President's desk prior to his expected departure for a southern vacation Christmas day or the day following. Ordinarily it requires two days for a bill to be properly engrossed and forwarded to the White House.

This process is to be expedited and the bill may be before the President late today. He will forward it first to the Department of Interior, the usual recommendation as the secretary may have to make, and then to the director of the Bureau of the Budget for his recommendation on the expenditures. The bill then will be returned for the President's signature, which should be affixed Friday or Saturday. The President has 10 days, exclusive of Sundays, in which to sign.

LIQUOR STAMPS DENIED

A motion by Attorney Ward Bonsall for the issuance of an attachment for David H. Blair, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, for failing to answer a subpena to produce specimen export whisky strip stamps at the trial of Manfred Feitler and Ike Danovitz in Federal Court, was denied yesterday by Judge T. P. Schoonmaker.

Feitler and Danovitz were tried and convicted of possessing 2,582 counterfeit strip whisky stamps, purported to be for export liquor, and the specimens were wanted by the defense counsel for comparison. The counterfeit stamps were seized in a raid May 10, 1928, at the bottling concern of the defendants on Watson street, according to the testimony of prohibition agents.

Feitler and Danovitz will be sentenced later.

TRAIN MISHAPS INJURE TWO

BLAIRSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 19.—Harry S. Lewis, 47, brakeman, suffered a broken right ankle and body bruises when he was hurled from a freight car when the brake mechanism gave way while he was tightening it. He was thrown in front of the car, which was moving slowly, but escaped from the tracks in time to escape death. Marion Rowe, 57, conductor on the train, sustained injuries to the back when he was knocked to the tracks while releasing a tightly applied brake.

Almost unheralded, Marion Anderson, Negro contralto, came to Carnegie Music Hall last night, and gave one of the most satisfactory song recitals of the year. Though most of the audience must have been unaware of the importance of her songs, they felt a great beauty and sincerity in all her singing that made her patrons beg for more.

The program was very serious, musically, and relieved by some very charming English sings. After the first offerings, there was a feeling that all was well, that every word would be uttered in unaffected and refined diction, and that a real musical intelligence was prompting the phrasings.

Miss Anderson's voice is well schooled and vibrant with emotion. It is the emotion of her race, plus that of an understanding singer. Whether she is using the clarion tones of her high voice, or her sombre resonant low register, all is beautiful. And there is color to spare throughout her large range. In the Air of Purcell there was something strangely prophetic; in the Scarlatti, a joyous play of sunshine; in Debussy, a tenderness contrasted with tragic sorrow.

The group of German songs was alone a test of musicianship. One might take exception to the interpretations of the Strauss and the Schumann, but certainly "Die Allmacht" was a magnificent performance, and "Der Zwerg" worthy of better known singers. The songs of Bridges, Griffes, Quilter and LaForge composed a set of compositions that made many demands on the performer. Each became a miniature of individuality, doubtless enhanced by quite exceptional diction.

The crowning glory of the evening was the Negro spirituals, given with a feeling no other race may imitate. Miss Anderson's approach to this music is the approach of Paul Robeson rather than that of Roland Hayes. There is something more rugged and true than musical, though the latter quality is never absent. There is something of the Negro preacher, of the mammy on the doorstep of a plantation hut, tinged ever so slightly with the cynicism of a ne'er-do-well. These songs were deeply religious, with just enough suspicion of humor that made them all the more true.

William L. King played very quiet and musical accompaniments. As encores came Cyril Scott's "Blackbird Song," Spross' "Will-o-the-Wisp," Strickland's "Lindy Lou," and another spiritual "Scandalism" ma Name."

J. FRED LISSFELT.

BUDGET SLASH UP AGAIN

Council today will continue budget sessions in an effort to cut about $350,000 from estimated expenditures to meet revenues expected to accrue from the recently fixed tax levy. The levy is $2.50 for each $100 valuation of land and $1.25 for each $100 valuation on buildings.

Original estimates of expenditures, as submitted about a month ago by Mayor Kline, totaled $25,-$30,000, and adjustments have since been made which cut that total by approximately $400,000.

Buys Cartridges, Shoots Seller, Robs Store

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—A robber strode leisurely into the Crown Loan and Jewelry Company store in the heart of the business district here last night, purchased cartridges for his pistol, loaded it, kicked in the show cases, shot Jake Shainock, proprietor, over the heart and ran away with hands full of watches and jewelry.

Shortly after the robbery, Harry Van Wagner, 30, of Fort Worth, was shot, perhaps fatally, by a policeman when he was said to have resisted arrest. Fifteen watches, said to have been taken from the Crown store were found on his person. Shainock was expected to recover.

Frances is being held pending the arrival of her father.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Clubwomen in Christmas Musicale-Tea

MRS. GEORGE S. BATON MRS. E. J. CASSELMAN MISS SUZANNE BEATTY MRS. FREDERICK OATES

Mrs. George S. Baton, Mrs. E. J. Casselman, Miss Suzanne Beatty and Mrs. Frederick Oates were present at the Christmas musicale-tea which the Woman's City Club gave in the club rooms, William Penn Hotel.

Social Set Given Day To Rest Up for Coming Whirl

IT SEEMS almost incredible, doesn't it, that there is at last a day unmarked by a notable society event in these before-Christmas days? But if one looks at the social calendar for today, one will find it as bare as Old Mother Hubbard's cupboard. Perhaps society folks feel the need of a bit of rest from the gayety of the weeks preceding the Yuletide. The younger set had such a notable day yesterday that a day's grace before the innumerable dances of Christmas vacation will be welcome. A tea and a dinner and then as a climax that superlatively important event, the Tuesday cotillion, are enough to make any day replete with social gayety, don't you agree?

From now until the latter part of January when society folks will leave for the warm South, I dare say there'll be few new entertainments announced. Not many dinners or balls or teas will be given, I feel safe in saying, after the first few days of January.

And with the birth of the new year will come the end of the debutante season. And next year a new group of young girls will be the cynosure of the social world.

* * *

SPEAKING of debutantes, I'm reminded that a debutante entertainment has been canceled. The Orvis C. Yingling, of Coral Pilot Manor, Butler pike, were to have given a dinner dance in the Wildwood Country Club on Saturday for Janet MacGregor, debutante daughter of the John W. MacGregors. Of course Janet's "bud" days are over now that she is Mrs. Morris C. Robinson.

* * *

DESPITE the distractions of Christmas time, the committee in charge of the charity ball to be given Thursday evening in the William Penn Hotel are completing arrangements for the event.

The floor committee of the cafeteria has just been made known. William Christopher Robinson, jr., chairman, has asked the following young men to aid him: James Flower, Bernard Horne, James McCutcheon, Louis Nohl, Stewart McClintic, George A. Kelly III, John McKelvey, J. Shirley Austin, Raymond Moreland, Reginald Quaile, William Stimmel and William Hawsthorne.

* * *

One of the features was the lucky number dance, the favors being little dolls wearing gay costumes of pink and blue trimmed with tinsel, which concealed packages of cigarets. The decorations were very simple, just a few groups of palms and ferns in the corners of the ballroom and around the stage.

The cotillion committee included Moorhead Holland, in addition to the members I mentioned before, and assisting them were Mrs. Taylor Allderdice, Mrs. J. Frederic Byers, Mrs. Richard B. Mellon, Mrs. J. Verner Scaife, Mrs. Frank Scott Willock, Mrs. Harvey N. Van Voorhis, Mrs. T. Howe Nimick, Mrs. George C. Burgwin, Jr., Mrs. Harry Darlington, Jr., Mrs. William Penn Snyder, Jr., Mrs. Henry Oliver, Mrs. Henry R. Rea, Mrs. Alan M. Scaife and Mrs. William C. Robinson.

The Samuel A. McClungs entertained at dinner in their Murrayhill avenue home before the cotillion. Their guest of honor was Jane Allderdice.

* * *

A NUMBER of the debutantes are going to sell candy and cigarets at the Girl Scout tea dance on Saturday at the Hotel Schenley, under the direction of Mrs. Carl H. Borntraeger, chairman of aides, and her vice chairman, Mrs. George L. Walter, Jr. These girls include Jane Allderdice, Bettie Dunlap, Louise Evans, Rebecca Follansbee, Rhoda Gamble, Dorothea Jenkins, Margaret Marshall, Elizabeth McCullough, Louise Reed, Katharine Schley, Marian Stone, Peggy Stevenson and Harriet Wainwright.

THE marriage of Miss Sarah Francis Hoskinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Hoskinson, of Crafton, and Elwood Noyes Osborne, son of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Only the immediate families were in attendance. The bride wore a gown of Spanish lace with a coronet to match, and carried a shower of white roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. G. Elsworth Hoskinson, aunt of the bride, played the wedding prelude and Mrs. Henry Munnoch, sister of the bridegroom, the wedding march. A breakfast for 28 followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Osborne will be at home after January 1 in Mainsgate street, Ingram. The bride is a graduate of Indiana State Teachers' College and Mr. Osborne was graduated from the University of Maine.

* * *

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made by Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Tompkins, of Middleport, O., of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ernestine Tompkins, and Samuel J. Hamer, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. The bride is a sophomore at Ohio University and a member of the Alpha Sigma Alpha fraternity, while Mr. Hamer is a freshman at the same school and is pledged to Sigma Pi fraternity. Mr. and Mrs. Hamer spent the week-end with the former's parents and have returned to Athens, O., where they expect to complete their college career. They will spend a part of the holidays here and a part in Middleport.

MEMBERS of the Woman's Literary Club of Bellevue combined their Christmas party with a guest day yesterday in the home of Mrs. William D. Reid, California avenue, Avalon. TRUNK ROBBED BY 2 POSING AS OFFICERS

Posing as officers, two well dressed youths obtained entry to the home of Mrs. Anna Freund, 45, 7610 Race street, and after forcing the woman to the third floor of her home at the point of a revolver looted a trunk owned by Max Raidel, a roomer. The robbery occurred last night and the pair obtained $800, police say.

The robbers knocked on the front door of Mrs. Freund's home and informed her that a brother of hers had been arrested and that they had come to search his room. When refused admittance, one of the youths threatened the woman with a gun. Mrs. Freund was shoved and struck by the pair on their way to the third floor, she said. The youths then went to Raidel's room and, forcing open his trunk, stole $300. The robbers ordered Mrs. Freund into the cellar and escaped.

Raidel, a tailor, was in a dentist's office at the time, according to police.

ESTELLE TAYLOR IS TO HELP LON CHANEY FILM AS FEMININE MENACE

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 19.

UNLESS Metro changes its plans very quickly, Estelle Taylor will contribute one of the big thrills in Lon Chaney's new picture, "Jungle." That is, of course, unless Estelle changes her mind. Right now everything is all set for the flashing star to act the female "menace" of the photo-drama. It is the important feminine role, and it will give Estelle the best opportunities she has enjoyed since she stole "Don Juan" from Barrymore with her portrayal of Lucrezia Borgia.

The part calls for an exotic type, possessing all the beauty and feminine passion, the fascination and the cruelty of a Bengal tiger. The characterization has immense possibilities, and Metro believes that Director Tod Browning has done wisely in selecting Miss Taylor. Browning is author of the story, thus he has a clear mental picture of the type required in each of the roles. There also is an heroine part to be filled. And this may fall to the lot of either Dorothy Janis or Armida, the little Spanish girl who has created a sensation in Gus Edwards' sound and color revue.

Phyllis Haver Joins DeMille

NOTWITHSTANDING the denials which followed this column's prophesy, Phyllis Haver joins Cecil B. De Mille on the Metro lot this week. No story has been announced. But her box-office possibilities, plus proved ability, guarantees big roles. Wonder if "C. B." still plans to feature Phyllis and her pal, Marie Prevost, as sisters in a picture to follow "Dynamite."

Rebe Daniels doesn't know just where she is going to cast her lot in future. But of one thing she is most positive. In the future Rebe will play drama in preference to comedy. She says so herself, and cites "Monsieur Beaucaire" and similar pictures as her idea of future vehicles.

Pauline Garon, thrown unconscious from her car in a motor accident, and hurried to the hospital, is fortunate in having escaped major injuries. "Polly" was badly shaken up, though, beside suffering sundry cuts and bruises. However, none of them have proved sufficient to keep her from the screen except for a brief period.

"The Comedy of Life" is the story chosen for Milton Sills to follow up his triumph in "The Barker." In the screen version, Maria Cordo, wife of the Hungarian director, Alexander Korda, plays the role of an Italian opera singer. Before embarking on a screen career, Maria was a member of the ballet in Budapest's Royal Opera. It remained for the movies to make her a prima donna. First National says there is to be a sound version of the picture, which will give Maria an opportunity to sing the familiar numbers from the opera "Aida."

Producer Uses Magical Wand

LON YOUNG, producer of Chesterfield Pictures, has amazed Hollywood with the rapidity of his work. Young writes his stories, casts and shoots his picture within six days. And turns out product equal to that costing much more in both time and money. The secret of his accomplishment recently came to light when Lon let it drop that he used to be a magician, skilled in the wizardry of Herman, Keller and Thurston. Without doubt he pulls his pictures from the camera in the same manner he used to produce white rabbits from high hats or ducks from decolette dresses. He still holds his card in the magicians' union.

"The Great Cinema Murder," written by Will Chappel, once a police reporter for the Brooklyn Eagle, is to be acted on the screen by order of Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures. It will follow the construction of a stage play, being presented in three parts similar to the three acts of the usual drama.

LOOK WHO'S HERE :-: FOR BALLROOM :-: CANNED VOICES

Mabel Normand, long off the screen, visits the M-G-M studio for the purpose of making a short reel which she sent to her husband, Lew Cody, for use in his vaudeville act, which opens in London Christmas Day. She plans to join Lew there.

Lupe Velez, ready to trip the light fantastic toe in a bouffant dance frock of black taffeta. The skirt has many ruffles and is covered with black tulle. A band of brilliants forms a V in the front and back of the gown, which requires no jewelry.

Bessie Love and Charles King, featured in "Broadway Melody," receive the first day's "rushes" of vocal registration for the film in the form of records. Harry Beaumont directed this sound film for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and also is on hand.

DAVIS GOING BACK TO VARIETY

When the Davis reopens next Monday afternoon with a two-a-day Keith-Albee-Orpheum vaudeville policy, patrons will see a nine-act bill of variety acts. Among the artists to be seen will be Francis X. Bushman, Jr., son of the noted film star, and the Watson Sisters, whose return to vaudeville will be welcomed by many who follow this form of entertainment.

"The Trial of Mary Dugan" will be presented next week in the Pitt. An extra holiday matinee will be given on Christmas Day, as well as the usual Thursday and Saturday matinees. Seats go on sale Thursday. Ann Harding is the star.

Seats go on sale Thursday for Ned Wayburn's "Gambols," a musical revue coming to the Nixon next week, to open Christmas eve, Monday, December 24. Principals include Rita Gould, Lew Hearn, Shirley Richards, Franklyn Ardell, Ann Pritchard, Charles Irwin, Grace Bowman, Fuzzy Knight, Olive McClure, William Holbrook, Priscilla Gurney, John Byam, Virginia Alexander, Charlie Elbey and Veraux, Vernon and Randall.

Seats go on sale at 9 o'clock Thursday morning in the box office of the Alvin for the engagement, beginning next Tuesday night, of "The Five O'clock Girl," with Mary Eaton and Oscar Shaw. The story is a variant of the Cinderella legend. There will be matinees Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Press Agent, 88, To Celebrate Saturday

"Yours Merrily," John B. Rogers, known throughout the world as the oldest press agent, will be 88 years old next Saturday, and for this occasion a downtown hotel has arranged a dinner in his honor. Mr. Rogers at one time was a famous theatrical manager and producer and the husband of Minnie Palmer, who, a quarter of a century ago, was the toast of the day. "Yours Merrily" is in Pittsburgh with Ann Harding in "The Trial of Mary Dugan," which comes to the Pitt Christmas week. He has been around the world several times and will make no future engagement with a friend unless he agrees to a meeting in Australia.

Gaylord K. Lewis

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 19.—Gaylord K. Lewis, 50, widely-known newspaperman of this city, died in the Washington hospital here last nigh after illness of a week from complications following influenza.

For almost 28 years he had been a member of the editorial staff of the Observer. A son of Dr. D. H. Lewis, he was born at Lone Pine, near here. BLAST IN MINE ENTOMBS 6

DRAKESBORO, Ky., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Volunteer rescue crews were struggling to clear away an avalanche of rock and debris deep in the coal mine of the Black Diamond Company early today to reach six men entombed following an explosion last night, but scant hope was felt that the imprisoned men will be found alive.

An accurate estimate of the amount of debris imprisoning the miners was difficult and most sanguine among the rescuers did not expect to reach the miners before 7 o'clock. Many others felt the task would not be accomplished before noon.

37 LIQUOR DISPENSARIES PADLOCKED

SIDE WALKS OF PITTSBURGH

BY HAVEY J. BOYLE

WHEN the influenza germs were being passed around its was my luck to have a seat in the front row on the aisle. Consequently I got one of the best of a large supply. Since I never have had a major operation I suppose I'll be excused for being a little proud of my recent illness. While I shall not here go into details about influenza it may be enlightening to the three or four persons who have not yet been attacked by the disease to hear that the sufferer has quite a time of it for the first few days. His condition, I believe, may best be described as being not unlike the condition of the Arlington Avenue Woman or the North Side Motorman or the Troy Hill Housewife who at various times have gone into their various ailments with an eye to careful detail just before they wind up preparatory to tossing a bouquet in the direction of their favorite remedy.

My own germ had the indecision of Hamlet. It just couldn't make up its mind for a few days. I think it was one of those efficient germs that demands a survey, charts, graphs and all that sort of thing, before going into action. After a few days of flitting here and there, the germ at last selected my throat as the best point. To give it credit this was not bad at all. If you ever tried to swallow a woolen blanket in one bite you have some idea of what a flu-infested throat is.

* * *

EVEN at the present moment I'm not sure I got anything better than a draw with the flu germ, but after all the books pall and the walls become monotonous, the flu victim is satisfied with a draw so long as he can get out.

* * *

As an aid to the medicine the physicians prescribe, to many sufferers I recommend "Mr. Blettworthy on Rampole Island," by H. G. Wells; "The Mind in the Making," a recent biography of Voltaire, all the current magazines, and a rereading of "Man and Superman," "Fanny's First Play," and "St. Joan," by Mr. Shaw.

MARK ROBERTS, who as you probably know, is secretary of one of the volunteer fire organizations, writes from Miami, Fla., that he finds the sunshine and warm weather down there "as advertised." While he is getting some little satisfaction out of the reports from Pittsburgh that we are having rain and fog, he intimates his stay in Florida will not be complete until he reads a Pittsburgh headine saying: "King Winter Grips City," or "Blizzard on Way Here."

Really, Mr. Roberts, really.

Before he left town Jack Donahue, the dancer, corrected the column in an important affair. The column had said that Marilyn Miller held her hands aloft to add grace as she walked onto the stage. "You were wrong there," said Mr. Donahue. "Actresses hold their hands aloft so the blood will run out of them. They are all dreadfully afraid that red hands will cause the customers to think they just got through washing the supper dishes."

Falls Forty Feet, No Bones Broken

Pate Stubinger, 35, 397 Bailey avenue, is in the South Side Hospital nursing a few sore ribs, as a result of falling out of a third-story window, a drop of more than 40 feet, early yesterday morning.

According to the South Side police, Stubinger was under the influence of liquor and was being put to bed in the home of Albert Fielding, 107 South Twelfth street when he fell out the window. He was taken to the hospital in No. 7 auto patrol and a charge of drunkenness was placed against him. Although he is still confined to the hospital, Magistrate John J. Having broken her nose in an automobile collision as well as being otherwise hurt, Cathryne E. Kuhn and her husband, Paul E. Kuhn, of Morgan, have brought suit against Walter Thomas for $15,000 damages.

It is averred in the bill of complaint filed in Common Pleas Court that on October 7 last while the plaintiffs were riding along the Bower Hill road, between Mt. GIRL POET HERE RIVALS CHILD WONDER

Pittsburgh has produced a child-poet, aged only 12, as a rival for the noted Nathalia Crane, Brooklynn girl who four years ago at the age of 10 wrote "The Janitor's Boy" and started a whirl of dispute as to whether someone more mature was penning verses under her name.

Pittsburgh's contribution to poet-prodigies is fatherless Elsie Rosenzweig, making her home with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pickholtz, 5522 Stanton avenue.

Elsie has not the slighest technical knowledge of rhyme or meter. Yet, she has penned scores of poems. Miss M. Elizabeth Wolf, principal of Rogers School, where Elsie is a seventh grade pupil, is eloquent upon the girl's poetic ability.

HER VERSES

Elsie was found at her home, where she was asked to pen a verse or two on winter. Five minutes later she presented and recited these verses:

"The snow is falling thick and fast,
Winter now has come at last;
Children with their sleds appear,
Happy, smiling, see them here.

Come one, come all, play in the snow,
That shines like crystals clear,
For, it will not last very long,
The first snow of the year."

Compare that with the opening verse of Nathalia Crane's "The Janitor's Boy:"

"Your hair was red, your eyes were brown,
You had a freckled nose;
You were the father of my dolls—
My husband, I suppose."

Nathalia Crane's tribute to "The Janitor's Boy," written when she was only 10, introduced the Brooklyn girl prodigy to the world of poetry and threw her into a whirl of dispute as to whether her poems were original. Edwin Markham, honorary president of the Poetry Society of America, hinted the child could not write a line.

HONORS ABROAD

After her tome regarding the Janitor's Boy ran into nine editions, however, Nathalia was invited to join the Society of Authors, Playwrights and Composers of London, an honor seldom extended by the hands across the sea.

"The words just come to me," was Nathalia's explanation of the flow of rhyme and rhythm.

Her foster parents say Elsie Rosenzweig is extremely precocious. "She is an omnivorous reader," said Mrs. Pickholtz, "She is happiest when reading a book or writing verse. Her language is different from that of other children of her age. When not reading or writing she appears to be lost in the contemplation of some inanimate or living object. Things that other children enjoy seem to bore her and, no matter what catches her eye or ear, she always wants to known the whys and wherefors."

Man Fined $100 On Liquor Charge

Joseph Lang, 47, 149 Pius street, was fined $100 by Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court yesterday, after it was testified that Lieut. James B. Early and squad found a quantity of moonshine liquor in his premises. He was charged with keeping a disorderly house.

TIRES OF FOUR BLOCK WALK, ASKS DIVORCE

Compelled to walk four blocks each day out of his way to keep from passing the house of the member of a church choir his wife was jealous of and for nagging him about other women, are among the reasons given by Foster A. Helfrick, 431 Orchard avenue, Knoxville, for wanting a divorce from Mary P. Helfrick, now living in Baltimore.

In his bill of particulars filed in Common Pleas Court, at the request of the wife, Helfrick claims that his wife on one occasion threatened to kill him with a large knife and on another said she would brain him with a marble ornament. In 1916 Helfrick says he bought a home in McGruder street, but on account of being continuously accused of being friendly with the particular member of the choir in question, he had to greatly inconvenience himself.

He alleges his wife also accused him of being friendly with a waitress in his brother's hotel at Parkersburg, while on a visit there. She also associated him in a similar manner with neighbor women and others, all of which he denies.

Helfricks avers through his counsel, W. Rody Ruttenbusch, that on account of his wife's conduct he was embarrassed and humiliated by her language and actions. He asks for a divorce on the grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment. The couple were married in 1916. Helfrick gives his wife's residence as 4012 Gwynn Oak avenue, Baltimore.

SCHOOLS TO BE KEPT OPEN

Avalon, Ben Avon and Emsworth schools will not follow the action of Bellevue and West View of closing schools because of prevailing sickness, according to school representatives. While many pupils and some teachers are absent on account of illness in the three former boroughs, the school authorities say they do not believe closing classrooms would check the present epidemic.

RUNAWAY AUTO HITS FIRE TRUCK

Miter Mewosh, 25, 2824 Sarah street, narrowly escaped being seriously injured when he lost control of his automobile and crashed into a fire pumper apparatus at Locust street and Arlington avenue, yesterday.

According to Fireman I. Hughes, driver of the pumper from Engine Company 21, they were responding to a still alarm at 246 Arlington avenue, when he slowed down on Arlington avenue near Locust street to see the numbers on the houses, when Mewosh, driving in the opposite direction on Arlington avenue crashed into the huge apparatus, putting the pumper out of commission and breaking a spring. The automobile also was damaged. Hughes said that Mowosh claimed the steering wheel locked and he thus lost control. Mewosh was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and will get a hearing in Traffic Court December 27.

The firemen were forced to walk three blocks to the fire which was only a chimney fire causing no damage.

Saloonist Is Fined On Liquor Charge

John Beggs, 44, who conducts a saloon at 133 South Twenty-second street, was fined $50 by Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court yesterday. Magistrate Rules Omelets Must Be as Ordered

"If a patron orders a cheese omelet with French fried potatoes, and gets a cheese omelet with mashed potatoes, he is not compelled to pay for it," ruled Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court yesterday. It happened this way.

Charles Judikis, 30, 151 South Twenty-first street, ordered French fried potatoes with his omelet, and when served mashed potatoes by Thomas Galonis, the proprietor of the restaurant at 2115 Carson street, he refused to eat the meal or pay for same. Fire Capt. Hunkle of No. 12 Engine Company, across the street from the restaurant, heard the commotion, and placed Judikis under arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct.

James Dickson, 6904 Apple avenue, burned when gasoline ignited while a bakery truck on which he was riding was being supplied at a filling station, has brought suit through his father, George Dickson, against the Gulf Refining Company for $25,000 damages. It is alleged in the bill of particulars by Attorney William L. Jacob that gasoline was permitted to run to a heated part of the machine. Flames shot up suddenly. The boy was burned about the legs.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.

I saw the picture of the Paraguayan and Bolivian army. Tex Rickard used to be down in those two countries. Why don't they let him put on that fight for them? I saw a hockey game he put on here Sunday night, and war is kinder effeminate after it.

He would build a grand stand, charge admission, and the peanut and hot dog and movie privileges would put even the losers on velvet.

Let the winner meet Peru in the semi-finals, and that winner meet Dempsey in the finals.

Yours, WILL.

The dramatization of the transportation to Chicago, by night air mail, of the films of Lindbergh's reception in Mexico City will be the subject of this broadcast. It is a known fact that the films in question were not ready when scheduled and that the air pilots were compelled to make up the two hours delay in order to get them to Chicago on time. How they succeeded and how, in achieving that success, all kinds of perils of the air had to be overcome, will afford a dramatic half-hour.

As associates in this responsible post, the Hon. Mr. Ford of Michigan (does not state whether it is the lake, the game or the state) will have Olive Kline, the concert soprano; the symphony orchestra and the male quartet.

Overture to Inquisitive Women (Wolf-Ferrari)—Orchestra.

10:00 P. M.—Kolster hour: "A Trip to the Movies."

The radio audience will be shown how much pleasure can be derived from the movies even when "heard and not seen." They will have an opportunity to use their own imagination in interpreting the music that, in turn, is interpreting the action of an ordinary movie. Opportunities for burlesque are legion, and, as the broadcast is not restricted to one movie, dramas of various kinds, comedies and tragedies will all lend themselves to an amusing reproduction over the air.

10:30 P. M.—Night club romances.

Tonight's story will concern the coincidental meeting of two couples who, never having seen each other, have made an appointment to meet. The surprise experienced by the city couple when they finally encounter their family's friends from the country is amusingly set forth as a foreground to the jazz rhythm and color of a night club.

Father's Letters Pay Night Club Check

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(A.P.)—R. Sholto Douglas at times has kept himself supplied with money by selling letters and postcards of his father, Norman Douglas, British novelist. There is a market for them among collectors. As described by Mrs. Douglas, who is here with her husband for Christmas: "Postcards used to pay for lunches while the letters netted enough for night clubs and the opera."

BUGS BAER Says

LEAGUE of NATIONS st'' reports progress in various directions.

Mostly backwards.

Paraguay and Bolivia are leaping all over each other like wildcats in a mustard factory.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

King Amanullah of Afghanistan has looped forth over a royal detour because his army is anxious to salute him with loaded muskets.

China is as quiet as a new toy drum on Christmas morn and the Riffs are asking for another riffle.

Mr. Hoover is visiting South America in an attempt to find some more places for our Marines to visit.

The general effect is about the same coloration as that sunny day when Cain looked at Abel and decided that he would be a good guy to get clubby with.

Sir Eric Drummond, who is secretary of the League of Nations, is bicycling on to Paris to meet Aristide Briand.

Aristide is president of the League Council. The league functions just like a Mongolian doctor who only gets paid when his patients are NOT sick.

The international conference on conciliation and arbitration is in session in Washington.

Overtures have been made to Bolivia and Paraguay, but the situation is way past the overture.

It's in the third act now.

Diplomats and ambassadors are rushing to the conference.

The last peace has been so successful that they are looking around for somebody to blame it on.

The home office of peace is Washington.

But it looks as if the salesmen have oversold the factory.

No matter where you hide the bottle, it seems that the cat can always find the cream.

In the meantime, we are preparing for the season of peace on earth and good will toward men.

Buy yourself some nice, pretty Christmas cards with the latest war news on them.

Dudley Meets Madge and He Pleads With Her For Forgiveness

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Madge Sayre, pretty and young, awakens on the morning of her twenty-first birthday rebelling against the dinginess of the New York apartment she shares with her father, an unsuccessful inventor. She craves thrills and the joys and luxuries of life. She meets handsome Carroll Dudley, artist and aviator, at a party given by Frances Storrs, a friend. He pursuades her to pose for him and after professing his love for her, which she accepts, it develops that he is already married. Added to this he exhibits her picture at a party in violation of his promise not to do so. Madge, blind with rage, cuts the canvas to ribbons and rushes from his studio. She is struck by the automobile of Michael Winchester, scion of an old and wealthy New York and Virginia family. In the hospital she finds herself surrounded by every attention the Winchester millions can give her, and more too, as young Winchester falls in love with her. Winchester sends her to Atlantic City to recuperate. When she returns Winchester begs her to dine with him at his home, after which he proposes to her. She finds herself in his arms, consenting, if he wants her, knowing that she doesn't love him. She is still in love with Dudley. The wedding was a great event. It was a great moment in the life of thrills that Madge once longed for until the moment of departure on the honeymoon. From the window of the car she waves to the cheering throng and then not five feet away meets the bitter smile of Carroll Dudley. They arrive at the Winchester homestead in Virginia. The next day Madge, astride a spirited Arab, loses control of the animal which runs wild toward the steep banks of a creek. Michael races alongside and halts the steed on the bank of the creek. Madge loves him more for his bravery. A barrier of misunderstanding which neither is able to surmount arises. To relieve the situation they return to Michael's palatial Long Island estate. There he receives a cable to go to his sister in England. He fails to ask Madge to accompany him. During his absence Madge's father dies. Michael cables he will return immediately, but she requests him not to. Shortly after, in a darkened theater, a man takes the seat next to her. "Ecstacy!" "Ecstacy!" he whispers. It is Dudley's pet name for her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVII.

A LITTLE pulse beat in Madge's white throat as she heard that voice.

"Ecstasy! Ecstasy!"

There was pleading in it. Passion was there and, Madge believed, a touch of tragedy. The old thrill to her with renewed strength. Carroll's voice had ever affected her that way. But she must not forgive him, even though every fiber in her being called out to him. She must not. Must not.

Meanwhile, Carroll was pleading in a whisper.

"Be merciful and forgive me, Ecstasy! I showed your picture! Pride made me do it—pride in my skill as an artist—pride in your beauty, your maddening beauty, my delight. And I said rotten things! I was drunk that night, and when I knew I had lost you, I was mad and insane, just as I was at Atlantic City. When a man is under ether in the operating room, they tell me that he strikes out blindly at doctors and nurses. I was under ether, Ecstasy—the anesthetic of continued pain—and I struck out at you, though I loved you all the time!"

She must not listen to him. The magic of his voice was calling to her—calling to her, as a bird will call to its mate in the springtime. It was not safe to sit there listening to those tempting tones.

Without addressing one word to him, Madge got up suddenly and made her way out of the theater.

Her car was not there. She had ordered it to be in waiting at the end of the afternoon performance. A taxi driver saw her, however, and swerved to the curb. Out of the corner of her eye, she saw that Carroll was there, hat in hand.

"Will you please not annoy me?" Madge heard her own voice saying.

Carroll opened the taxi door.

"I have to talk to you," he insisted. "I must talk to you, Ecstasy, don't drive a desperate man too far! Will it hurt you to give me a minute or two? Are you entirely heartless?"

The taxi driver was listening. Loiterers were looking. Madge could not have a scene on the street. She got into the cab, and as Carroll prepared to follow her, she saw that she could not avoid an interview. Well, better get it over.

"Tell him to drive around the park," she requested coldly.

The cab swung into the maze of traffic. They were on Broadway. Carroll tried to take Madge's hand.

"If you touch me," she warned him, "I will put you out of this cab as I put you out of my car at Atlantic City. You can have nothing to say to me, but to avoid a scene I will listen to you. Why are you annoying me like this? Haven't you any pride when a girl shows you that you are distasteful to her?"

"None—not an atom of pride where you are concerned, Delicious One. How can I have pride when I lie pleading with you at your little feet? Pride—I have only one emotion—my love, my adoration for you and the agony it has all caused me. Oh, Delight, have you any idea of the pain I suffered when I stood in the crowd—just one of the crowd—watching you, pale and lovely as a lily, drive away as the wife of another man? May you never know anything approaching to the torture of that moment!"

At first Madge felt the allure of his voice as he was pleading with her; but then she recognized his infinite cleverness, the cleverness that had twice deceived her.

"Don't be so absurdly clever, Carroll!" deliberately she mocked him.

"Don't be so unnecessarily cruel!" he said sharply. "Do you take pleasure in watching me suffer?"

"Of course I don't want to make you suffer," she answered. "But all this is so fruitless, Carroll. What can you and I have to do with each other? I am married—happily married," and as she said it her thoughts flew to Michael. Perhaps at that very moment he was sitting on some beautiful terrace in one of the stately homes of England, whispering to June Wilson.

"Even the dogs eat of the crumbs," he quoted with striking pathos. "What am I asking? Merely that you forgive me and and give me—give me the right to see you sometimes and to take your hand in friendship. Have I not tried—inadequately to tell you of how sorry I am? And look at my punishment! I have lost you—chiefly through the madness of my love for you. If I had been clever, cold, calculating—I believe I would have won you. But your beauty swept me off my feet. I shall always love you—go to my grave adoring you. And no cruelty or coldness from you can kill that love. Yet all I ask to mitigate a little of the pain is for you to forgive me and from your riches to give me, occasionally, a glimpse of you such as any of your friends may have. Is that too much to ask my darling? Is that too much to ask?"

His fervor affected her. After all, he was asking only for her friendship. Why shouldn't she see him once in a while? Just on terms of friendship . . . And perhaps he had suffered. Then she hesitated. Was she in danger . . . not from him, but from herself? His old attraction was there. This she recognized freely, but the mere fact that she recognized it should prove a protection. She was no longer the entirely credulous girl. She could look down on him from her great position.

"Just friendship, Ecstasy!"

"Friends hardly call each other by names like 'Ecstasy!'" She smiled for the first time, so that the man sitting beside her, consumed with his desire for her, which he dignified by the word "love," felt confident that she was weakening.

CHAPTER XVIII.

HOW closely Dudley's boast and bet came to realization within the month was indicated by Madge's fine preparations for the dinner that night. She had the chef prepare especially, and no detail was spared or lacking in its finesse. And when it was finished, with their sense of restlessness unappeased, he could have predicted the airplane ride, the landing in a cornfield near an isolated cottage, their enforced staying there all night, she as Mrs. Madge Storrs, the name adopted from her best friend, Mrs. Agnes S. Dudley was dead, he told Madge.

Prophesied also might have been the dinner parties that followed in the wake of this first, Mrs. Winchester's final consent to appear at Dudley's studio, her posing again—the almost final indication of surrender, and then, when the cablegram from Michael arrived, with the artist's promise that her divorce would soon be consummated, their flight by plane from reach of the gold machine of the Winchester's—to a country house, a boarding house, where, in separate rooms, they live as Mr. and Mrs. Carrol Dudley. He had agreed to see her only on weekends. The place was owned and conducted by Henry Ferris and his wife, Martha. Celeste was their lovely 8-year-old daughter.

Here they planned to await her divorce from Michael and then—

Sweet Sixteen -:- -:- By Truda Dahl

WHICH one of the "Sweet Sixteen's are you? Are you the REAL sweet thing that poets love to rave about, or are you the gay jazz-mad creature that one hears so much of nowadays?

Some of the 16-year-olds are as sophisticated as their mothers—more so, in fact. Others are the demure, sweet things that everyone loves.

But the fact remains that each has her own dreams of life; each looks at the path spread before and dreams the dreams that only a 16-year-old can. And each dream is sprinkled with thoughts of the Prince Charming who is one day coming to claim her. And each takes a different method of attracting. One is shy and blushing; the other laughing, gay and blatant.

But—eventually they'll find the dream-prince—only one will take the love path and the other—love, too, for awhile until she losses sight of it in the gaiety without which she cannot live.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

What a Man Thinks He Likes

WHAT a man thinks he likes in women and what he REALLY likes are two things as distinct and as far removed from each other as the hotel breakfast menu and the hotel dinner card.

* * *

Theoretically, of course, he likes the wholesome, simple, practical things on the breakfast menu. But it's the tempting dishes with plenty of spice, sauce and fancy dressing on the dinner card that appears to arouse his enthusiasm.

* * *

Any man will tell you that he likes an intelligent, sensible, level-headed girl who can think for herself. Oh, yes, he does—so long as she agrees with all his opinions, always his advice and permits him to do all her thinking FOR her.

HELEN ROWLAND

* * *

Every man will assure you that he hates "a made-up face" and loathes lipsticks and mascara. But just try to flag him with a "sweet, pale mouth" and a shiny nose, and see how far you will get!

* * *

Any man will give you to understand that you can be perfectly frank with HIM. That he likes a straightforward, candid woman, who never flatters him and is not afraid to show her real thoughts and emotions.

* * *

Certainly he does! As long as her frankness consists in telling him how wonderful he is. And her candor consists in never telling him her middle name, never emoting over him, never showing a spark of jealousy and never letting him see "the wheels go 'round" in her head or her heart.

* * *

Every man will assure you that he hates fussy clothes, loathes perfumes and abhors the idea of being seen with a conspicuously dressed woman.

* * *

Yet it is not always disapproval that makes him turn around to stare at the dizzy blonde in the scarlet hat or the dashing red-haired woman in the backless evening gown and nothing gives him more of a thrill than to dance around with a mannikin in the "last word" from Paris, who attracts as much attention as a circus parade.

* * *

Every man will claim that he can spot a man-tamer at sight, and that the high-powered queens have no lures for him. Give him a loyal, whole-hearted, one-man woman!

* * *

Yet, unless he happens to be a heart-collector himself, almost any man would rather be the last on a popular girl's telephone list than the first in a lonely girl's heart.

* * *

In short, theoretically, a man likes the kind of woman he ought to like and wants to like—but when it comes to a matter of selection, somehow he nearly always picks "the other kind."

Dicky Quarrels With Madge About Her Career

DICKY'S knock upon my door affected me curiously. While I had been waiting for his arrival, I had been foolishly tremulous and fearful of the unpleasant moments which I knew were in store for me. But the sound of his impatient rapping was like a heady tonic to my nerves, and as I went to the door and threw it open, I felt poised, confident, strong. I even managed a gay little laugh as I met his dour glance.

"Dear me, Dicky," I exclaimed. "Has your bank failed, or your favorite editor been fired? You look like a pallbearer."

"Oh, can the comedy!" my husband snapped. "That alleged humor of yours isn't ever very funny and it's especially flat today. I'm in no mood for joking. I'm here to find out if you've come to your senses yet, or are still cherishing such a yen for your job with old Veritzen that you're willing to pass up everybody else, even your own child, for your 'career'."

Lillian once said of Dicky that she never knew anyone who had so great a power of "raising blisters" with his words and tones. I thought of her comment now for the first time, as I listened to his question so charged with venom that the little speech lost the effectiveness which it otherwise might have had.

For I knew that he did not mean what he was saying, or even realize how atrocious was the slur, which he had uttered for the second time this day. From the experience of years I guessed that he had come back from his tramp in a tractable mood, ready to acquiesce in my plan to continue my work in the city during the winter, coming to the farmhouse only on week ends and leaving Junior in Katherine's competent care. But the sight of Philip Veritzen seated close to me in Junior's room, engaged in manipulating the expensive toys my employer had brought for our small son, had again set Dicky's always combustible temper in a blaze.

His explosion was simply another instance of his jealousy of Philip Veritzen and my work with the great producer. He was also echoing all the sex antagonism, conscious and subconscious, which men and women have always felt for each other, and which is most bitter, it seems to me, when it invests the question of a married woman working outside her home.

His jealousy I could forgive. Women are made that way. But the thing that lay deeper than jealousy, the assumption that because I was his wife he could direct the course of my life in any way he planned—that was something for which I could not find any pardon in my heart.

But with the unerring feline instinct for an opponent's weakness which women possess, I knew that the surest way of getting even with Dicky was to present an unruffled exterior to his anger, and I swept him a mocking little bow as he flung the word "career" at me. Then I drew forward a chair for him with elaborate courtesy.

"Do sit down, Dicky," I said in saccharine tones calculated to rouse murderous yearnings in the breast of any man, "and calm yourself. You really are dreadfully excited."

He snatched the chair from my hand and sent it spinning against the couch nearby, while he glared at me wordlessly as though my audacity had deprived him of speech. But I went on talking as smoothly as though we were having the most amicable discussion possible.

"Don't you think you are overestimating the importance of this question?" I queried. "I think it is rather absurd to speak of my embarking upon a 'career.' I simply am deciding to continue work which I contracted to do and to which you agreed. I am afraid that I must refuse to consider your objections, and especially must I decline to have you turn over the decision of my personal affairs to Edith Fairfax."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, December 20

A TRAIN of adverse lunar and mutual configurations make this a day of dangers, confusions, defeats and temptations. There are signals of many pitfalls and pernicious situations, which will take much stamina and integrity to confound and put to rout. The mental make-up and moral trend may be undermined by illness, impulse, clamor, restlessness and excitability, inciting to rash and irresponsible acts. These may cause loss of employment and prestige and may also call for hasty change of environment. Extreme vigilance in every respect is enjoined.

Those whose birthday it is are forewarned of a year of many tests and trials of their character and general probity. The way is beset with temptations and dangers, which may only be routed by firm guard of tongue and temper, with all energies marshaled against pitfalls and snares. Protect the employment and sign all writing with caution and honesty.

A child born on this day may require more rigid moral and mental training and protection.

He that stands upon a slippery place makes nice of no vile hold to stay him up.—Shakespeare.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Diet Today Superior to Our Forefathers'

ONE of the gratifying things about modern life is the increasing interest in the preparation of food. I saw a picture the other day, a photograph of a great multitude of women actually crowding Carnegie Hall in New York City. It was a group of home-makers attending a cooking school. We hark back to "them times"—the pioneer days "when men were men and women were cooks." Why go so far? There are just as good cooks today as there were in Revolutionary times. As a matter of fact, the food we eat today is, on the average, far better than it was then. It is better in original quality and it is prepared better.

DR. COPELAND

What saved the pioneers from chronic indigestion was the hard manual labor they performed. They sort of "worked off" what they consumed.

Do not misunderstand me. There have been wonderful cooks for ages past. No doubt many a family in olden times had splendid food. But the world was not delivering its riches then and there was not the multiplicity of dishes we enjoy today.

Fried foods, rich gravies and an over-supply of meat, made combinations which only powerful digestions could handle. Wild game, coarse vegetables and the cereals in natural form, made the body of the typical meal.

There isn't a food in the list that isn't good, of course, but there is an over-abundance of roughage in it for the modern way of life. Without strenuous exercise, such as our fore-fathers and fore-mothers took, the digestive organs would rebel.

We have the right to criticize the modern foods for exactly the opposite reasons. The trouble with our presentday eating is that many of our foods are "denatured." That is, the outer coverings and fibre are removed in too great quantity. In the effort to make them attractive to the eye, some of our foods are robbed of their most important elements.

Common sense should be applied to the preparation of food. Unfortunately, however, common sense is not quite enough. That is the reason why such gatherings as the Carnegie Hall convention are important. Experts teach the scientific reasons for this or that combination of foods, as well as this and that process of preparation.

We must not sneer at "new-fangled" ideas. We must investigate these suggestions and apply such of them as are likely to improve health.

Routine methods, methods which we have used for years, are difficult to change. We don't like new things. We even resent the very suggestion that our way of doing things is the wrong way, or if not the wrong way that it can actually be improved. Alas, many of the things we have done always, are the wrong things to do.

Please, don't get mad at me when I suggest that it is a good thing to consult the cook books and see if some better recipes can be found. Let us not despise the new idea.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Thank the Waiter

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it proper to thank a waiter for assisting you with your wraps when dining in a hotel restaurant?

2. Do you put the olive pit on your service plate or bread and butter plate?

3. Do you eat sliced oranges, when served at the beginning of a meal, with your fish fork or spoon?

MARION

YES, ma'am. It is always proper, because it is polite and gracious to thank anyone for a courtesy. And this service is a courtesy. The well-bred person is, remember, always generous with "Thank you" and "Please," and the frequent use of these charming twin words shows a fine nature, I think.

2. On your bread and butter plate. This use is one of the joys of a bread and butter plate!

3. Sliced oranges may be eaten with a small fork or with a small knife and fork (the tea knife and fork) or, as they are continentally served, with a small fork for the left hand and the dessert spoon for the right hand.

Introduce Mother

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When a young man asks a girl to go out with him and he has never been introduced to her mother, should she invite him in and introduce him to her mother? What should she say?

2. What should she say when he brings her home? Should she ask him to call again?

ANXIOUS.

YES, indeed. The careful-thoughted girl will always be most punctilious about introducing her friends, girls and boys, to her mother. "Mother, may I present Mr. Miller?" or "Mother, this Tom Miller," or "Mr. Miller, this is my mother."

2. She thanks him for his hospitality—"Thank you so much for such a happy time. I have enjoyed every minute"—and, if she wishes, asks him to come to see her again. And if he wishes to come again, he will ask her for this privilege.

Mr. Ukvuk no catchum cold

Up near the arctic circle, where 40 below is nothing unusual, Mr. Ukvuk is spearing his breakfast through a hole in the ice three feet thick. And though he catches plenty of fish, he never catches cold.

Why? He never overworks. He doesn't stay out late. He gets sufficient sleep. All of which keeps his vitality and resistance to infection at high mark. But those who work and play much harder need winter health and cold insurance.

To millions that means GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. At the very first symptom of a cold—headache, sneezing, stopped-up feeling, vague discomfort—they promptly take this remedy for its proved and quick results. The tonic and laxative benefits give amazing relief, help throw colds off quickly, and may prevent grip or "flu". . . . But to get such results, get the genuine by emphasizing GROVE'S when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

SHE ALSO SERVED

By MARTIN ROSS JEFFERSON

THEY couldn't decide whether it was because she was new to the game or because she was just brow-beaten—but whatever the reason her humility amused them. Humility is a quality most waitresses discard early, if you've ever noticed. And the staff of stiffly starched servitors at Durand's, a Fifth avenue branch of the largest chain restaurant in the country, constituted no exception.

The girls at the Fifth avenue branch were hand-picked. No ordinary waitresses, these. Before donning the attractive linen smocks and perky blue caps marked "Durand—Fifth Avenue" an applicant had to submit to rigid examination—and it was a mark of distinction among the sisterhood to say you had achieved a high percentage on the examination. Perhaps that is why, when one of these fortunates placed before you a cup of coffee she made you feel as if you were being served by a queen.

As a matter of fact "Queenie" was the nickname bestowed upon their leader by the feminine crew in service at Durand's. "Queenie" was tall and belligerent with a large nose, and she repeated your order in strident tones as though she dared you to change it. If the toast were burned, and you were a regular patron at Durand's, you very rarely complained, for fear of incurring the displeasure of "Queenie."

But you never hesitated to complain about anything if you sat at Jane's table. Jane was the newest recruit to Durand's and she hadn't yet learned to adopt the haughty manner that was characteristic of the regulars. That is why they considered her a foreigner—an alien who was slightly inferior. Unless—could it have been because they were jealous of her?

One couldn't blame them for that. She was young and menacingly pretty. And what made her charm so devastating was her unselfconsciousness. Somehow she was always a little startled when you commented on her beauty—as though she challenged your taste. Which is not a bad way to be, as many of the patrons at Durand's had told Jane. To her credit, however, it must be said that she rarely encouraged these little confidences. The other girls thought she was foolish and frankly told her so. "If you would only smile at them a little," Queenie advised her in a burst of generosity one day, "you'd get grand dates, I do."

But Jane was always amused by this counsel. She preferred to make her friendships away from the restaurant, while the other girls depended almost entirely on the acquaintances they formed at Durand's for their social activities.

One morning a young man of about 28, with curly blonde hair and a bored manner came into Durand's and sat down at "Queenie's" table. For all his boredom he was a very attractive young man—if you wanted to be extravagant you could call him handsome—and "Queenie" lost no time in taking his order. She was at her haughty best, but out of the corner of her eye she took stock of the diner's charms and made a mental reservation to "play" him. In her aristocratic way she ogled and smiled, but still the young man appeared disinterested. "Queenie" sauntered past his table every once in a while watching him almost reproachfully, for had he not refused to fall victim to her charms?

Suddenly she hit upon an idea. Going into the kitchen she summoned the other waitresses together and explained her scheme. "Let's send Jane over to his table," she suggested. "It'll be fun to watch her getting squelched."

While the others agreed to the idea at the time it was propounded, 15 minutes later they regretted it. For as a matter of fact Jane was anything but squelched by the bored young man. When she came over to his table to ask if he wanted anything else he looked up at her startled to hear another voice. "No, thank you," he said, "I don't think I want—" Then he stopped, arrested by her quiet manner in such striking contrast to "Queenie's" hauteur. "Yes," he said, "I think I'd like some stewed prunes."

The stewed prunes were placed before him a moment later, but for all the young man cared they need never have come. For he hated prunes—and liked Jane. Yet he knew there was nothing to be done about it except to leave both, so he put his newspaper aside, took up his hat and left a shiny half dollar beside his plate. When he left, Jane stared at the coin and smiled. "That's rather a large tip for a small breakfast," she thought, and told the girls about it.

"Queenie's face fell as she realized the failure of her scheme, and during the following weeks her dissatisfaction was further sharpened. For every morning at 9 o'clock the same blond young man came into Durand's for breakfast—and sat at Jane's table. And each time he left a tip out of all proportion to his meal, until it was evident to all the employes in the restaurant that Jane had "made" her man.

Even Jane had to admit that the idea wasn't entirely repulsive. In fact as the weeks went by and he continued to come every morning she was beginning to hope he would be a little bolder, invite her out. This he did after four weeks of breakfasts. He told her that he had been attracted to her more through her humble attitude, her obvious desire to please, than through her beauty, although, he said, he didn't want to belittle that. Jane trembled when he said nice things to her. Nobody had ever made her feel that way before.

Nobody had any chance, though, after that. Because the bored young man admitted, one day, that he was in love with Jane and that he wanted to marry her. "But you've never even told me your last name, Peter," she said. "Will you marry me, or won't you?" he demanded. "Time enough for formalities afterwards." So Jane said "yes" almost automatically and waited further instructions.

"I've never told you my name, Jane dear," he said, "because I never wanted you to know it. You see, I hated to think you might consent for any other reason but that you loved me." She frowned a little at that. "What other reason could there be?" she asked. "My name is Peter Durand," he explained, "and my father owns the restaurant in which you work."

Then he kissed her very hard, but she didn't seem to mind. . . .

READ YE TAYLE OF YE GREATE MR. HAGGERTY

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

LIST to the tale of the great Mr. Haggerty, as told by the equally great, if not greater, Dr. John Bain Sutherland, coach of the Pitt football squad. There are some who call Dr. Sutherland Jock, but that is merely because this sporting world permits of a bit of familiarity with its heroes that is foreign to other spheres.

Dr. John B. told the story of Haggerty at the banquet in honor of the Aspinwall High School football squad at Webster Hall Monday evening, and it's a lulu.

"At the end of my first season as coach at Lafayette College," Doc said, "I agreed to play in a professional game with the Massillon (O.) Tigers against Cleveland at Cleveland. On both teams were a number of my former teammates at Pitt, such as Bob Peck, Thornhill, the Allshouse brothers and a few others. The game was played on Thanksgiving Day, we having finished our season at Lafayette the Saturday before.

"I ARRIVED a bit late in Cleveland and so did not start the game. However, I got in late in the first period, and, as I walked upon the field, I could hear the boys on the two teams saying, 'Here he comes; here he comes.' Their remarks appeared to be addressed to a big fellow from Tufts named Haggerty, who was playing guard for Cleveland opposite the position I was to fill, and myself. I thought at once that the boys had been cooking up something, either on Haggerty or on me.

"Well, we lined up and I soon began to get wise. This fellow Haggerty was an idol with the Cleveland fans. He seemed to be able to be in every play and got credit for everything that was done. The crowd kept cheering his name. It was Haggerty this, and Haggerty that, and Haggerty this, and Haggerty that all over again on all of their cheers. If a fumble was recovered, Haggerty got the credit. If a gain was made by his team, Haggerty got the credit. If a kick was blocked, Haggerty got the credit. If a tackle was made, Haggerty got the credit. He was the original Big Credit Man.

"It was a hard-fought battle and neither team could do anything until well along in the second half. Then we drove on to a touchdown, and soon we were on our way to another one. The Cleveland fans were frantic, as they called upon their Mr. Haggerty to do something to save the cause. They yelled for a touchdown, and, when that was not forthcoming, they set up a hue and cry against another touchdown being scored by Massillon. Soon there boomed across the field an insistent:

"'Hold that LINE, Haggerty! Hold that LINE, Haggerty! Hold THAT LINE, Haggerty!'

"You would have thought Haggerty was the whole team and could do the job singlehanded.

"FINALLY the thing began to grate even on Haggerty, fighting player that he was and he went ahead and saved the day, and here's how he did it. His Irish will coming to fore, he cocked his ears to hear once more that plea to hold the line, and blared back:

"'Go on wit' yez! What do yez think I am, a telephone operator? Hold that line, Haggerty, hold that line, Haggerty! Is that ALL yez can say?'

That, according to the good Dr. John B. Sutherland, was too much. Both teams got a laugh out of the situation and the tenseness of the play was gone.

"After that we didn't care whether we got that extra touchdown or not," he said, "and we didn't get it. The great Mr. Haggerty had proved himself great, indeed, turning back with a laugh a tide he couldn't hope to stem with all of his vaunted skill and strength."

THEY'VE railroaded Pitcher Flint Rhem out of the majors on the claim that he is a "bad actor." They said the same thing about Bill Tilden and Jack Dempsey.

Yale's athletic campaign of 1928 was not a complete failure, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. It managed to place two of its players on the all-collegiate soccer team.

LAYTON, HOPPE, GREENLEAF, NATALIE WIN

By

Chas. R. Ellis

Former World Three-Cushion Billiard Champion.

(Written Exclusively for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.)

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—The first match in the world billiard championship here yesterday, between Otto Reiselt and Johnny Layton, was a typical Reiselt-Layton affair. On the one side, spasmodic and inspirational, and on the other side, methodical, exacting and nearly perfect. It was a wonderful match, providing plenty of thrills for the fans who were not slow to show their appreciation of the players' efforts. However, Layton was simply too good and left Otto at the 40 mark, just about two Reiselt inspirations short of a winner. The class of billiards displayed thus far has been the best of any three-cushion championship tournament and this game was one of the very best, as the score attests; Layton, 50; Reiselt, 40, in 58 innings.

GREENLEAF WINS

Now comes the big ballyhoo national champion at the pocket game, Ralph Greenleaf vs. Erwin Rudolph, former champion. The champion entered the arena with everything but a valet, and the referee acted in that capacity. Greenleaf's portion was plenty of razzberries and 125 balls, while Rudolph had the sympathy of the crowd and got the applause and 95 points. It was not the champ's good play, but his opponent's errors that caused him to emerge the victor. Thus far the billiard stars have totally eclipsed their pocket billiard brothers in quality of performance.

Willie Hoppe and Gus Copulos opened in the evening. Oh, yes I forgot to mention yesterday that Hoppe is now sporting a fuller brush on his upper lip. Not becoming, but he has additional billiard "up" since the writer last saw him. Whether this hirsute adornment is responsible for his greater efficiency I cannot say, but Gus has not missed a possible single, has left nothing for his opponent and trailed by 18 points in the twenty-eighth frame, Hoppe having 28 points.

HOPPE VICTOR

From this point it was a grand uphill fight by Gus against overwhelming odds, but in these days an

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

WHILE Herb Pennock, of the Yankees; Bob Grove and Jack Quinn, of the Athletics, and several others enlivened the pitching exploits of the American League during the past season, it remained for a comparatively young lefthander to lead the junior circuit in slab effectiveness.

The official figures on the pitchers as published today disclose that Garland Braxton, of the Senators and a former member of the Boston Braves' pitching staff, slipped under the wire ahead of the renowned Pennock in the matter of earned runs scored.

Braxton won 13 and lost 11 games as against 17 victories and six defeats for Pennock, but the younger hurler allowed only 2.52 runs per game, compared to 2.56 for Pennock.

CROWDER A SENSATION

Alvin Crowder, a Pirate for a spell, was one of the sensations of the league during the season as he worked for the Browns. This clever righthander led the league in percentage of victories with a mark of .808. Crowder copped 21 games for Dan Howley, he losing only five encounters. His achievements truly were high spots in the campaign.

Lefty Grove and George Pipgras of the Yanks won more games than any of the others, each annexing 24. Grove lost only eight engagements while Pipgras was defeated 13 times. Waite Hoyt, another Yankee star, was a big headliner with 23 successes and only seven setbacks.

John Miljus, Pittsburgh boy who finished the season with the Indians, after a disputed sale, showed American League fans a rare brand of effectiveness despite a card of four defeats and only one victory. John was fourth in earned-run effectiveness with a mark of 2.65.

VETS STILL GOOD

The veteran Quinn won 18 games and lost only seven and he was sixth in the league in effectiveness.

Sam Jones, a native of the Wheeling district, was one of the leading pitchers of the circuit. The former Yankee ace gave the Senators fine service in winning 17 games and losing seven, he being fifth in effectiveness.

Pipgras was the strong boy of the league in that he led in innings pitched with 301.

Grove finished in front in fanning batters with a total of 183.

Chillysauce

Jess Petty, new member of the Pirate slab staff, lost something like $1,100 as a result of his deviltion for training rules last year, but Petty, Brooklyn newspapermen report, will not swing into action with the Bucees until the penalty money is refunded. He is said to have declared that the heads of the club promised to return it to him.

If the Dodger officials did promise to reimburse Petty, they must have a small regard for discipline, but the payback should be of no concern to the Pittsburgh club. Moreover, the Dodger bosses appear to have weakened a bit from a position they held at the time of the fining. Robbie conversed with me on the subject of Petty a day or two after Big Jess was punished.

"The board of directors of the club have just sent me a telegram commending my action in fining Petty," said Robbie. Apparently the board figured that justice had been done in the matter. As a rule no good purpose is served in promising to rescind an action of this kind. It might lead to the flaunting of discipline on the part of a lot of athletes.

The plan of the Pirate officials to switch Pie Traynor from third to short sounds O. K., but Traynor may not be in full accord, judging from his viewpoint. Pie seems to hold to the idea that it would be quite a task for him to adjust himself to the movements required to play short after performing at the hot corner for so many years. It is assumed that the willing worker would make any change to better the club, yet there are two sides to the question.

When Traynor joined the Bucees as a regular, Rabbit Maranville was regarded as a ranking shortstop of the game, so Traynor went to third to become the greatest third-baseman of the sport over an eight-year period, and he still holds the honor in the opinion of many.

An attempt was made in Hot Springs to make a second-sacker out of Traynor. This writer advocated Pie as a third-sacker from the start inasmuch as the shortfield was filled. Harold Joseph doubtless could have acquitted himself as a second-baseman but there seemed to be more call for his extraordinary ability on the other side of the infield. His tenure at second, by the way, was very short.

Johnny Gooch, who played with Traynor when Pie sparkled at short for the Birmingham Barons, regards Traynor as the greatest he ever watched at the position. Gooch certainly had a fine opportunity to form an opinion.

Chicago Ice Sextet To Move to Detroit

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—After six more home games the Chicago Blackhawks, local entry in the National Hockey League, will move to the Olympia Arena, Detroit, to finish the schedule. The lease on the Coliseum expires January 20, and the Blackhawks' management has not been able to negotiate a satisfactory lease for an ice rink in Chicago. Hockey will return to Chicago next season, the president of the Blackhawks announced.

Bucs-Americans Battle Here Tomorrow

The Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Americans, opponents in a National Hockey League game at New York last night, will arrive here late today to continue their fight at Duquesne Garden tomorrow night.

The game will mark the first appearance of the Americans here this season, and will have an exceptional appeal for local fans in that Lionel Conacher and Roy Worters, former Pirates, will be in the invaders' lineup.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—The New York Americans ran their winning streak against National Hockey League opponents to five straight by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates 2 to 0, here last night. The victory gave the Americans a firm hold on first place in the International Division.

The Americans' airtight defense played havoc with Pittsburgh's passing attack while a lucky goal and a perfectly executed pass brought them two scores. The Pirates kept driving at their former teammate, Roy Worters in the American net, but Tommy Gorman's players were too expert at keeping their sticks between the puck and the goal. Miller stopped 36 American drives while Worters had only 40 saves.

DARRAGH GETS CUP

Leo Reise, big American defense player, made the first score in the opening period on a long drive that bounced over Miller's skate into the goal. Rabbit McVeigh, speedy little substitute, passed to Normie Himes for the second score in the middle of the second frame.

Tommy Gorman, New York manager, presented the Hotel Roosevelt trophy to Hal Darragh, Pirate wing, before the final period. Darragh won the trophy by drawing fewer penalties last season than any other player. The lineup:

BEST WORKOUT YET MARKS ARRIVAL

By

Howard Harpster

All-America quarterback of Carnegie Tech and member of all-East team.

(Written Exclusively for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.)

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 19. — We arrived in Oakland at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and immediately boarded a ferry for San Francisco. As we stepped aboard the ferry, we were met by a small army of photographers, who took group and individual pictures of the Eastern players all the way across the bay. After about a 20-minute ride, we landed in San Francisco where we were greeted by the Shriners of Islam Temple. The Shriners, led by their band, paraded to the city hall and were followed by the players from the East, who rode in new touring cars. On the sides of each car were the names of the players and the colleges from which they came, and the numbers of the team. Thus we were easily identified by the great throngs which lined the streets.

HOWARD HARPSTER

Upon arriving at the City Hall we were given the key to the city by Mayor Rolf and were welcomed in behalf of the Islam Temple by Illustrious Potentate Erbes. Responses from the Eastern guests were given by Coaches Andy Kerr and Dick Hanley.

Immediately following the reception at the City Hall, we were taken to the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children, where for more than an hour members of the squad talked and played with the kiddies, trying to cheer them and to make them happy. It is for this hospital and for these children that the East-West game is being played. And all proceeds will go toward helping make them well. Certainly we are playing for a very worthwhile cause.

We were guests of the Shriners at luncheon at the Palace Hotel, where we will be located for the next few days.

The workout yesterday afternoon was held on the Oakland Baseball Grounds in Oakland. It was a long drill and the best workout the team has had to date. Running passing, kicking, and signals were the things stressed, and the team looked much improved over anything it had shown so far.

Last evening was spent in Oakland, where elaborate entertainment was scheduled. We were the guests of the Oakland Temple.

So far, the trip has been a wonderful success and the players are having the time of their lives. The hospitality and courtesy shown us in San Francisco and in Oakland could not have been improved upon and it certainly made a big impression upon the boys from the East.

NOTRE DAME'S famed grid coach, Knute Rockne, was here for a short time yesterday en route to Huntingdon and Altoona to attend high school banquets. He visited with Clarence (Buddy) Overend, graduate athletic manager at Tech. He appeared to be in good health and spirits, according to Overend.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

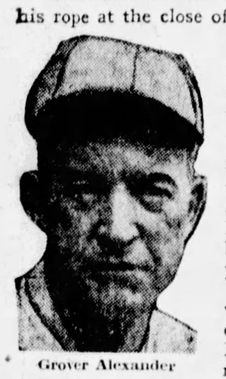
COBB GOES OUT WITH GREAT MARKS

THOSE baseball dopesters who have been figuring that the venerable Grover Cleveland Alexander reached the end of his rope at the close of the 1928 season, would be among the missing at the start of the 1929 campaign in the majors, have another guess coming. The old boy, who will reach the 42-year mark next February 26, and who is the senior of every active pitcher in the big show except Jack Quinn, of the Athletics, appears to have foiled, for another season, at least, the efforts of Father Time to cut him down, and will be right back on the job as a Cardinal pitcher in the spring.



Grover Alexander

Official announcement to that effect was made by President Sam Breadon, of the Redbirds, before starting for Honolulu on a vacation trip. The statement spikes the rumors that have been going the rounds since the world series that Alexander was to be given his unconditional release during the winter and that when the 1929 pennant race began the famous veteran would be missing from the National League picture which he has graced for 18 seasons.

IN replying to a question as to how Alexander stood with relation to the St. Louis club's plans for next year, President Breadon said: "He is not going to be released. He won 16 games for us this year, and where can we find a pitcher who can guarantee such a record? Alex will be with us in the spring, and I hope he will be one of our leading pitchers in assisting us in the fight for another pennant."

Not merely did Alexander win 16 games last season, as Breadon points out, but his defeats totaled only nine. That spells a percentage of .640, and not many pitchers capable of winning practically 65 per cent of their games are running around loose nowadays. If Alex is near the end of the road it is not apparent in his record, for his 1928 total of 16 victories equals or beats the number of decisions he won in six earlier seasons. His record was 16 in 1919 and 1922, while it was 15 in 1921 and 1925, and 12 in 1924 and 1926.

THE reuniting of Milton and Alex Gaston, the brother battery, on the Boston American League club for the comnig season, as a result of the recent deal that sent Buddy Myer back to Washington, follows developments that show another pair of brothers drawing nearer to each other again in baseball.

The latter two are Jess and Virgil Barnes. They are not to be on the same club in 1929, but at least they will be in the same league again, as the Boston Nationals recently sold Virgil to the Milwaukee club, of the American Association, the circuit in which Jess has been operating for some time. Jess will change clubs next year by the way, Toledo having sold him to Buffalo.

Andy Cohen

WHILE it is considered practically certain that Andy Reese wil start at second base for the Giants next year, Manager John McGraw makes it clear that he has not lost confidence in Andy Cohen. Explaining why he benched Cohen near the close of the 1928 race, McGraw said: "I didn't take Cohen out because he had failed, or because I had lost faith in him as a ball player. I merely saw that he was stale and needed a rest, and, in justice to him, I gave it to him. He had been under a strain all season, beginning when he first stepped into the lineup to take the place of a man like Hornsby. The mental burden he carried into every game was coupled with the physical strain of playing day after day through a hard pennant race, and it was not to be wondered at that he showed the effects of it. I still think Cohen is a good ball player, and next year he should be a better one because of the experience he gained last season.

SOME times baseball averages are a fair indication of ability or value, and sometimes they are misleading. Not always would the men with the best marks make the strongest team that could be picked from the playing ranks in either of the major leagues.

For instance, if you were to form a club of the American League men having the best averages in batting for 1928 you would have to omit Babe Ruth, as the leading three outfielders in hitting were Goose Goslin, Heinie Manush and Al Simmons. The remainder of the team would be made up of Lou Gehrig at first base, Tony Lazzeri at second, Urban Hodapp at third, and Joe Sewell at shortstop, with Mickey Cochrane as catcher and Billy Bayne, a product of this district, as pitcher.

IF you were to take the fielding averages in the same league as marks of actual worth, using players who worked in more than 100 games at the regular posts, the best team you could select would be composed of Woodall or Bengough as catcher, Morris as pitcher (he worked in more games than any other pitcher with an errorless record), Todt at first base, Bishop at second, Kamm at third, Joe Sewell at shortstop, and West, Manush and Simmons in the outfield.

Ty Cobb

Joe Sewell, Cleveland shortstop, won an unusual distinction in being the leading player of the league for the year at his position in both batting and fielding. Manush and Simmons earned similar ratings in both departments as two of the leading three outfielders.

BEFORE the wind-up of the 1928 season rang down the curtain on the remarkable major league career of Ty Cobb, the durable Georgian added something to each of the records he had prevously piled up. The official averages for last season show that Cobb went out with the following marks, among others, for his 24 campaigns in the main tent: Games played, 3,033; times at bat, 11,429; runs, 2,244; hits, 4,191; singles, 3,052; two-base hits, 724; three-base hits, 297; home runs, 118; total bases on hits, 5,863; stolen bases, 892; extra-base hits, 1,139; runs batted in (1928 not included), 1,861; years batted, 300 (also consecutive), 23; grand batting average for 24 years, .367. All of the above marks, except those for two-base hits, three-base hits and home runs, are major league records.

IN a day or so, Georgia Tech's varsity football squad will entrain for Pasadena on the West coast, where, on New Year's Day, the Yellow Jackets and the University of California will clash in the annual Tournament of Roses classics. This is the football feature in which Pitt and Stanford took part a year ago.

Bill Alexander will lead a crack team westward, one easily worthy of Southern championship rank and also of consideration as the national champion.

Coach Alexander has enjoyed considerable success since taking over the coaching reins at Tech in 1920, succeeding the veteran John W. Heisman. This was his only undefeated season, though in each of four other years he lost but one game.

IN 1920, Tech won eight games out of nine, being defeated only by Pitt. The following season, the Jackets again won eight and lost only one. Penn State kicked over the Southerners that fall. In 1922, seven games were won and two lost, Navy and Notre Dame winning on successive Saturdays. Tech won three games in 1923, and lost only one, but was tied in four, the drawn contests being played with Florida, Alabama, Kentucky and Alabama Poly (Auburn). Notre Dame beat the Jackets 35-to-7 that year.

The season of 1924 was far from a good one, five games being won, three lost and one tied. Albama, Notre Dame and Vanderbilt winning their frays with Tech.

ALEXANDER brought his team back again in 1925, winning six out of nine, losing two and drawing one. Notre Dame again downed the Jackets, as did Alabama. In 1926, the tide reached its lowest ebb, only four games being won against five lost. In 1927,

Georgia Tech lost only to Notre Dame and was tied by Vanderbilt, but closed the season with a sensational and unexpected victory over Georgia, knocking the latter out of the Southern title. During the 1928 season, nine games were won, with Georgia, Notre Dame, Alabama and Vanderbilt being trounced, among others. Since 1920, Alexander has won 58 games at Georgia Tech, lost 16 and tied 7.

CHING JOHNSON, disabled star of the New York Rangers, laid up in a Montreal hospital with a broken leg, is following the National League hockey race closely through the newspapers. "The goalies are certainly going great this season," he commented while discussing hockey with Alfred Dayton. They look exceptionally strong. There isn't a club that can be called weak in the nets, and, figuring the league as a whole, the goalkeepers are doing better than any one else.

Ching Johnson

"The Maroons look like the most dangerous club in the league. They are heavy, strong, and never stop plugging away When you get through playing them, you know that you've been in a hockey game. Next to the Maroons, Boston gives up the most trouble. The Bruins skate a lot, and they've got some bulk with it, and they also leave a fellow quite wilted at the end of a game.

"THE Canadiens also make the defense men hustle, but in a different way. You've got to watch them every instant, and their charges come so fast and frequently that they simply make their opponents dizzy at times.

"Individually, Nels Stewart is more dangerous than any other man in the league. He's as tricky as they come, has speed and weight, and there is no set formula for stifling his rushes. Once he gets free, there are few goalies that can stop him consistently."

BUCS MAY SIGN JOE DUGAN

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

JOE DUGAN, one of baseball's best third-basemen for many years, who has just received his unconditional release from the Yankees, may be headed for the Pirate third-base berth.

During the recent world series Joe informed the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph that, provided he left the Yanks, he would like to join the Pittsburgh club.

SERIES STAR

Dugan, one of the shining lights of the world series of 1927, wherein the Yankees trimmed the Pirates four times in a row, is regarded as a great player, but apparently the idea of taking him out of world series contests when the opposition pitched righthand hurlers was not to the liking of the aggressive New Englander.

Joe plainly showed his disgust at leaving the lineup when the Yanks fought it out with the Cardinals in 1926. His play in the scraps with the Pirates was an outstanding feature of the 1927 series. In the recent mixups with the Cards Dugan was benched in favor of Gene Robertson when righthanders appeared on the mound.

For years Dugan has suffered with an injured knee, but he said he expected this injury to be well healed before the start of next season.

Joe has a fine record in baseball, his career taking in five world series. Dugan took part in 94 games this year, batting .276. That mark, however, is below his natural stride as he had batted over .300 on two occasions.

PLAYED WITH MACKS

Dugan is only 31 years of age. During his Holy Cross College days he starred on the ball team and was secured by the Athletics. After five seasons under Connie Mack he was traded to Boston, but he didn't linger with the Red Sox long before being traded to the Yankees.

The Cubs and Dodgers are said to be on the trail of Dugan, but Joe probably would lean toward the Pirates if all other things were equal.

GIVEN RELEASE

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Joe Dugan, famous third baseman, has been given his unconditional release by the New York Yankees. Although well past his prime and handicapped by a trick knee, Dugan probably will catch on with some National League club, possibly Brooklyn or Chicago, both of whom are in dire straits for a reliable hot corner guardian. Dugan had been with the Yankees since 1922.

CHRISTMAS DAY BOXING CARD COMPLETE

The Motor Square Boxing Club has completed its program for its Christmas afternoon matinee, in the 10-round main bout of which Cuddy DeMarco will clash with Rudy Ceder.

Tug Phillips and Phil Scello, husky welterweight rivals, will box the eight-round semi-final. Dan Billick will meet Jackie Rodgers and Tiger Joe Randall will oppose Joe Columbo in six-rounders, while Mike Smithhammer will meet Tom Harris in the four-round opener.

Ceder meets Young Saylor, of Charleroi, in a main bout at Johnstown tomorrow night and the outcome of this event will be watched with interest. Rudy will have to more than hold his own with the clever Charleroian or he may find the latter taking his place in the holiday feature here.

Herman Folins, the Ambridge flyweight, added another victory to his string when he defeated Jimmy Doyle, New York National Guard champion, in a six-round bout in New York Monday night. It was only Folins' sixth professional bout and was fought after a layoff of several weeks due to an attack of grippe. Folins will be home to spend the holidays with his folks.

Tom Malco, the Soho welterweight, who meets George Kerston in one of the six-round preliminaries at McKeesport tomorrow night, has his eye on a bout with Dominick Profio, one of the main bout performers, who boxes California Joe Gans. Both Profio and Malco are recent graduates of the amateur ranks who have made good. Phil Scello and Johnny Carey meet in another 10-round bout on the double windup card.

Dominick Profio and Steve O'Malley will headline a card of five six-round bouts in the Washington (Pa.) Gardens Christmas afternoon. Three of the other bouts have been closed. One will be between Red Ryan and Leo Kyburski and another between Harry Spencer and Ray Kerr. Tommy Heilman will meet Young Smackey and his brother, Harold, will box the best opponent obtainable in the first event.

Young Smackey, of Canonsburg, who is managed by Abie (K. O.) Wits, boxes Young Elfrene, of Youngstown, at East Liverpool, O., tomorrow night, in addition to his bout with Tommy Heilman at Washington Christmas afternoon.

LOSMAN LOST TO DUQUESNE QUINTET

By JESS CARVER.

ED LOSMAN has either quit or been dropped from the Duquesne University varsity basketball squad. If he quit, he did himself a poor turn—and if he was dropped, he must now be added to the list of players who failed to make good in college basketball after starring in the independent swirl.

Ed Losman

Losman was obtained by the Dukes at the beginning of the 1927-28 season from the Sumer Somerman Club, now extinct, of the P. & O. League. Inasmuch as he was stepping from one amateur league to another a step higher, there was no purchase price attached. At least, none was given out. He was waived into the Rah Rah League and now he's been waived out again. Such is life.

I know there was no purchase price connected with the deal, for, being one of the brethren, Losman most certainly would have squawked for a piece of it. This he did not do—in fact, he didn't even ask for a special shower or a gold-bordered towel. He came up as a rank amateur—and how—amateur.

Ed reported to Chick Davies, the Dukes' coach, last year with a reputation and was held in favorable regard by even the skeptical Chick. By the end of the season he was merely another ball player on the Duke squad, having failed to show half the stuff expected of him. He simply couldn't get going.

He reported for the training season again this year, but again failed to come through, and as a result he is now out in the cold. Some of the boys will tell you he was dropped—others that he resigned. It was also murmured in some quarters that he exhibited too much temperament for Chick Davies—and Chick is the sort of a bird who will stand for anything but that. At any rate, he wasn't playing the sort of basketball that Davies thought he should have played and had the right to expect him to play.

LUBIC AT FORWARD

With Losman out of the running, young Ben Lubic seems to have one of the forward positions on the starting Duke team cinched. He likely will be found paired with Ganzy Benedict against Ohio Northern here on Friday night when the Dukes try off the city's college cage lid. Joe Vernon is slated to be back at his old spot at center, and little Brud Stephens and Big Jock Rosenberg, the captain, will play the guards.

The Dukes will play their final barnstorming game tonight, meeting the Butler Y. M. C. A. five at Butler.

Sharkey Flays Tex, Defies Dempsey

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(INS.)—Incensed by Tex Rickard's statement that he was a "chump fighter," Jack Sharkey dispatched a scorching telegram to the promoter today in which he charged that Rickard was the real manager of most of the leading contenders for the heavyweight title.

The Boston heavyweight, who recently declined to take on Young Stribling at Miami Beach, Fla., stated that Rickard had offered him $60,000 to go under his management. Sharkey wound up by offering to take on Stribling, Paulino and Jack Dempsey, one after the other, in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia or Boston rings.

Sharkey also sent a copy of the telegram to New York sports writers. It reads as follows:

"You say Dempsey is your ace in the hole and that he is going to fight again. Get him to sign on dotted line and I shall agree to meet him, winner take all.

"Dempsey cannot lick me and you and he knows it. Foul blows saved him last time and made your three million dollar gate in Chicago possible.

"When Knute Hansen, whom you brought from Europe and agreed to manage, was knocked out by Christner, you assumed the management of Young Stribling, who was all but chased out of a New York ring by Berlenbach.

"I understand you also have the controlling interest in Paulino, while everybody knows you manage Dempsey.

"I know you were peeved when I refused $60,000 to go under your management, but I would not do so for sixty million.

"I shall take on all three boxers under your management, Stribling, Paulino and Dempsey, one after the other, in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia or Boston rings.

"JACK SHARKEY."

TWO BIG COUNTY LEAGUE GAMES TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

ACTION galore is promised the followers of the Allegheny County League tonight when the Rauhs meet the Goldensons at the South Side Market House and the Miele-Franchinas clash with Reliance Life at the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Field Artillery Armory in league encounters.

Deadlocked for second place, the Rauh-Goldenson battle promises to develop into a hectic affair from the first whistle. The two teams have been rivals for a number of years, and games between them seldom fail to keep their respective followers on their toes.

OUT TO CHASE JINX

The Rauhs take the floor tonight determined to chase a jinx of long standing. Although they have been operating with considerable success in local pro circles for a number of years, the Rauhs have yet to score their first victory on the Market House floor. The Rauhs, who invariably function to perfection at Columbus Temple, their home court, as well as on other well-known floors in this vicinity, seem to fall apart on the South Side court.

The Uptowners have played the Duquesne Lafayettes, Goose Goslins, Goldensons and other prominent teams on the Market House floor in past years and strange as it may seem they have yet to win a game there. All of these teams have at one time or other tasted defeat at the hands of the Rauhs elsewhere.

If Moy Rubenstein, who has been out of the game because of illness, is back in the lineup tonight the Rauhs stand an even chance of defeating the Goldensons. The former Geneva star has been missed considerably in league games played so far and he will be welcomed back to the lineup by his teamates. Dom DeMaria, former Duquesne University star, is expected to join the Rauhs tonight.

MIELES IMPROVE

When Reliance Life takes the floor against the Miele-Franchinas Charley Price's quintet will find Mike Foglia's a much improved floor machine. Elated over the victory scored against Duquesne Light Monday night, the Miele-Franchinas hope to make it two straight tonight. Lippe and Schrello showed mid-season form against the Light passers and if they are in their natural stride tonight the Miele-Franchinas shoul win.

The revamped Cleveland Rosenblums, of the American Professional League have included Pittsburgh on the extensive exhibition schedule arranged for the Ohioans next month. The Rosies, who include three former Celtic players in their lineup, are booked for Cumberland, Md., Sunday, January 20; Johnstown and Altoona are dickering for games January 21 and 22 respectively; Washington is scheduled for January 25; while Butler and Connellsville are expected to close for games on January 26 and 27 respectively. January 28 finds the Rosies opening their first invasion of the South, Chattanooga being the first stop on the itinerary.

LEADERS TO CLASH

Homestead and vicinity are all agog over the battle tomorrow night between the Jeannette Felders and the M. J. Conlers for undisputed possession of first place in the Pittsburgh & Ohio Valley League. Neither team has suffered defeat so far this season and they promise to put up an exhibition at Rusin Hall that is likely to bring out the best the two clubs possess.

The absence of Johnny Dubbs has retarded the progress of the Immaculated Heart team in the P. & O. League to date and as a result the management is negotiating for the services of a first-class center. This important post is one of the week spots in the Immaculate Heart lineup.

Pip Koehler, former Morry and Fort Wayne star, and Cookie Cunningham, who played with the Cleveland Tigers last year, are the main springs of a professional quintet operating in Toledo this winter. This club has scored several impressive victories over American League clubs this season. Several American League clubs are said to be dickering for Koehler's services, but the former Penn State flash prefers to remain in Toledo, where he plays baseball in the summer. Koehler is a member of the Toledo Mudhens, of the American Association.

MORRYS TO MEET MANGANS

The Morry passers, elated over their victory over the Ritz Club last Friday, feel confident they will take the measure of the South Side Mangans in a P. & O. League game at Braddock tomorrow night. Max Berkowitz's boys seem to have struck their winning stride after a mediocre start.

Philadelphia Company opposes Duquesne Light and Equitable Gas meets Pittsburgh Railways in the Philadelphia Company League games at Fifth Avenue High tonight.

The Penn Five will be the attraction of the Duquesne Saltzers in a West Penn League game at Duquesne tonight.

The Geneva College-Community House game, originally scheduled for Saturday night will be played tomorrow night on the Community House floor. The change was made at the suggestion of the Geneva officials. Friday Geneva College will meet Tarentum Y.

George Ramsay, former star center of the Morrys, has been signed to play that position for the Goldensons in the Allegheny County League. Ramsay previously had announced his retirement from the game.

ELLIS

average of one at three cushions is only good for second place, so Gus had to be content with 42.

The final match, between Frank Taberski and Pasquale Natalie, for the Polish and world's championship at the pocket game, was won by Natalie, the score being 125 to 87.

SCHAEFER GAINS

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Jake Schaefer made further inroads into Welker Cochran's lead in their special 4,500-point 18.2 balkline billiard test here during the fourth block last night.

Leading by more than 600 points after the first two blocks, Cochran found his advantage shaved to 145 after the fourth block when Schaefer accumulated 486 points while Cochran was getting the necessary 400. The match score now stands: Cochran, 1,600; Schaefer, 1,455. Schaefer tallied 284 points in the third block, while Cochran scored 400.

The inning scores for the fourth block:

Cochran—188, 1, 21, 8, 8, 69, 2, 1, 1, 0, 104—404—1,600.

Schaefer—6, 161, 17, 60, 9, 0, 2, 0, 228, x—486—1,455.

Motor Leaders Deprived of Home Life; Instances

By B. C. FORBES

DETROIT, Dec. 19.

IF YOU put home life above success, and want to enjoy an easy, comfortable existence, don't aspire to become a high-placed automobile executive.

Here are glimpses I have obtained into the life led by such men.

J. D. MOONEY, president of the General Motors Export Company, although a through-and-through American, has to live a large part of the year in his English home to be near the scenes of export sales. C. F. Kettering, the genius who heads General Motors' extraordinarily important research division, has his home in Dayton, although the research laboratories are located in Detroit. Moreover, he has to do a lot of traveling in course of a year.

Richard H. Grant, admittedly one of the very foremost general sales managers in America, who receives quite a share of the credit for the phenomenal expansion in Chevrolet sales, covers virtually the whole country in his very frequent travels. Notwithstanding that Chevrolet headquarters are in this city, Mr. Grant still retains his home in Dayton, from whence he came.

YOU are just likely to meet A. P. Sloan in Detroit as in New York. The president of General Motors spends, as a rule, every second week in Detroit or surrounding territory. His main office is, of course, in the General Motors Building, New York. His home is down on Long Island, at Great Neck.

Fred Fisher, founder of Fisher Bodies, and now a pillar in General Motors, has his main home here, but his duties involve very frequent visits to New York, so that he has to maintain an apartment there. Both Mr. Sloan and Mr. Fisher are called "commuters" by the railway employes operating the crack trains between Detroit and New York.

C. S. Mott, who became identified with General Motors before General Motors itself was organized, so to speak, and who has allowed his initial important investment in the company to multiply and multiply, does not have his home in Detroit, although nearly all his duties revolve around General Motors headquarters here. Mr. Mott's home is in Flint, for which city he has done much and of which he has been the mayor. Mr. Mott, I am told, is the largest individual holder of General Motors stock.

PIERRE DU PONT, now on leave of absence as chairman of General Motors, devotes most of his time when on active duty between New York and Detroit and Wilmington, where the Du Pont family has lived for more than a century. Mr. Du Pont does not believe in long-range administration of a business. John J. Raskob, although his work has centered almost entirely in New York for years, never pulled up his Wilmington roots. His large family is being raised there and he never misses an opportunity to get away from the hustle and bustle of the metropolis. One junior sales official told me that one year he spent exactly 28 nights at home. During a total of 11 months he was on the road. Incidentally, he gave up that job and switched to a line of work which permits him to live here most of the time.

W. C. Durant, when he was a foremost factor in the motor world, found himself compelled to do much traveling, including visits to the various cities in which his plants were located. Of late years Mr. Durant has spent most of the time either in New York or at his home at Deal, near Asbury Park, N. J.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER hustles from one scene of operations to another. One day you will find him at the Chrysler main plant, the next at the Dodge plant, the next at his main offices in New York. In his earlier days there were stretches of months at a time when he was not able to be home one night in time for dinner. He does somewhat better than that now, but, even so, his home at Great Neck, L. I., does not see him at all regularly.

John N. Willys devotes his time mainly between Toledo, where his gigantic works are located, and his offices in New York. Mr. Willys has a home in New York and another on the shores of Long Island. Following the 1920 business collapse in this country, Mr. Willys spent some three-fourths of the following year on the road, licking his dealer organization into shape.

A. R. Erskine, who for many years has been the mainspring of Studebaker, has to circulate between South Bend and Detroit and between New York and South Bend, where the main works are now centered.

IN THE motor world—and in most others—ease and leadership do not go together.

STOCKS BREAK LEASH, LEAP AHEAD

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP)—With the call money market still showing no signs of the expected stringency, stock prices moved upward in impressive fashion today as buying orders were generously distributed over a wide list of copper, motor accessory, steel, automobile, merchandising, farm implement shares and specialties. At least two score issues moved up 2 to 5 points, with a sprinkling of others soaring 6 to 36 points.

Most of the day's trade news was bullish in character. The Iron Age's weekly review stated that "despite holiday and inventory considerations, steel ingot output for the country at large is more than holding its own, although declines are reported at some plants." The Iron Age composite price for pig iron has declined slightly, the first drop since July. The copper trade reports large inquiries for the red metal from the Western Union Company.

Case Threshing was the spectacular feature in today's market, soaring 36 points to 461. American Smelting jumped 12 points, Chicago Pneumatic Tool 10, American Zinc preferred 8, and Electric Auto Lite, A. M. Byers, Rossia Insurance, Johns Manville, Commercial Solvents, Warren Brothers, Delaware and Hudson, Kennecott and International Nickel sold 5 to 7 points higher. Wright Aeronautical soared 11½ points in the early afternoon on the publication of testimony by Assistant Secretary of Commerce McCracken before a House committee that the Wright company produced the largest number of airplane engines in the country.

New high prices for the year, or higher, were registered by National Bellas Hess preferred, Granby Copper, Greene Cananea, Pittsburgh Coal, Electric Auto Lite and Eisenlohr.

National Bellas Hess common, which scored a sensational advance earlier in the week, broke 4 points on realizing, and a similar loss was recorded by Abitibi Power.

Heavy buying of coppers during the morning encouraged constructive operations in other groups. Kennecott extended its gain to 5 points, and in the rails, Delaware and Hudson recorded a 5-point rise. Among issues pushing ahead from 3 to 4 points were General Railway Signal, Worthington Pump, Adams Express, and American Zinc. A fair sprinkling of important rails and industrials worked about 2 points higher. Call money again renewed at 7 per cent.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Good Stocks in Demand.

Throughout the market the best grade industrials went forward steadily and there was strong buying in the rail group. The Westinghouse issues advanced in response to a demand, a great deal of which was said to have its origin here. Rubber stocks were higher reflecting the expected expansion of activities along with the automobile industry next year, and several issues in which speculation has been more than ordinarily active during the present phase of the market showed signs of recent short covering. Pittsburgh Coal and A. M. Byers were among the latter issues. Brokerage houses for the past several days have been advising the lightening of holdings on all rallies, but the upturn Wednesday and today's further rise apparently failed to bring out the volume of selling many observers had expected would be seen on such an advance. The steel issues were helped by the favorable mid-week steel trade review. A few of the oils displayed a moderately improved tone, but there was no evidence that the public was much concerned with this division.

Loans and Listed Values.

The market value of all securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange soared to $100,000,000,000 last week, an increase of $15,000,000,000, or 17 per cent. Brokers' loans increased to $5,175,000,000 from $3,810,000,000. This increase of $1,365,000,000 was equal to 37 per cent of the increase in market value of listed securities. Brokers' loans of $5,175,000,000 are equal to a little more than 5 per cent of the total market value of listings. With these figures at hand the contention that there has been inflation in brokers' loans is a poor argument.

Ingot Output Holds Own.

The Iron Age says: Despite holiday and inventory considerations, steel ingot output for the country at large is more than holding its own, although declines are reported at some plants. Specifying, in most districts, has been heavy in sheets, tin plate and wire products.

Pig iron demand has diminished. Valley foundry iron has declined 50c a ton to $17.50.

Operations of a Buffalo producer have declined to 60 per cent, the average for Pittsburgh is unchanged at 85 per cent, and that prevailing at Chicago has risen to 85 per cent. Open hearth operations in Alabama are at the highest rate of the year. The average output of Steel Corporation subsidiaries, estimated at 85 per cent, compares with a recent rate of 84 per cent.

Ohio River shipments of steel in November, at 137,000 tons, established a new monthly record. The total for the 11 months of this year at 1,162,000 tons exceeds by 150,000 tons the combined movement for the two previous years.

The Iron Age composite price for pig iron has declined from $18.59 to $18.46 a ton, its first drop since July. The finished steel composite remains unchanged at 2.391c a pound.

Anaconda-Greene Can.

The stock market exhibited further buoyance today as the buying of high grade industrial issues went ahead in response to better reports concerning the outlook for the money market. While the general assumption has been that money will tighten up within the next week, there were rumors today that the supply available may be larger than had been anticipated. The copper stocks led the market again today, with Anaconda, Greene Cananea, Calumet and Arizona and others making the highest prices since the big reaction two weeks ago. Anaconda meets for dividend Monday and there was a report in the street today that the issue may be placed on a $7 annual dividend basis. This would compare with the $4 rate now in effect. Most observers, however, were skeptical of the $7 basis story and were more inclined to predict a $5 rate or a $6 rate with a good-sized extra. Adding to the favorable attitude toward Anaconda was another report that the company had turned down an offer of $200 a share for its holdings of Greene Cananea. The latter was in urgent demand again today, and it was said the floating supply is becoming more scarce daily.

Interpreting the Volume.

Various interpretations are being placed on the curtailment of activities as indicated by the smaller volume of trading recently. Some think this is a good sign because it means there is no liquidation to speak of during the reactions. On the other hand the bears contend such a condition is natural just before the market is likely to seek still lower levels.

Railroad Stocks.

Railroad issues particularly the standard dividend paying shares, are expected to meet increased demand from those who are to receive dividends and interest at the end of the year on their present investments. It is felt that because of the comparatively good yield and the excellent prospects for the carriers these stocks will be among the most attractive with outsiders who will be seeking opportunities to place surplus funds within the next three weeks. A prominent commission house is recommending Erie to its customers, pointing out that despite the sharp reactions which occurred in the general market this stock is selling close to its high of the year. This firm contends that the long pull prospects of the road are excellent. It adds that there is no short interest in the stocks, so the recent demand has represented new buying on a large scale.

Should the December earnings of the Erie Railroad show a surplus of $200,000, the full year's net before sinking fund requirements would be about $90,242,000, equal after preferred dividend requirements of $2,556,172 to $4.42 a share on 1,511,167 shares of common stock. There was further steady buying of the stock today.

Steel Market Strong.

The Iron Trade Review says: "The virility which has sent steel production and consumption to record heights this year is testimony to the basic strength of the steel year-end handicaps. At Cleveland demand for heavy steel thus far in December has exceeded the comparable periods of October and November. In other districts the late-December recession has been greatly moderated. Pig iron producers are planning active campaigns for the first quarter of 1929. Blast furnaces at Youngstown, O., and Granite City, Ill., have been lighted in the past week, while one stack at Birmingham, Ala., and two at Buffalo will resume early in January.

"This capacity is being brought in against tangible requirements. Especially in those districts where automotive business is the mainstay, sellers are pressed heavily for the first quarter. Furnace stocks are negligible, consumers will scarcely average a 10-day supply on their books, and prices for delivery promises to be insistent with the turn of the year."

New High on First National.

First National Bank at Pittsburgh sold today at $455 a share, a new high record and an advance of $25 over the last previous sale. Only one share was available in the early market at that figure.

In the last hour the price was run up to 460, with five shares changing hands at that price.

Machine Tool Buying.

Machine tool buying has declined somewhat this month as was to be expected, but the falling off is smaller than usual for the last month of the year. At this date sales have been on a par with those of the two previous months. The large amount of business booked to insure a good first quarter business, barring unforward developments. Aircraft companies are expected to become a more important factor in machine tool buying. Export business is gaining and the machine tool industry looks for substantial orders from abroad during the coming year. One Cincinnati manufacturer reported to have orders on its books for $250,000 worth of tools for France as well as sizable orders from Germany and Italy.

Stocks on Produce Exchange.

Trading in securities on the New York Produce Exchange opened at 11 a. m. today. With the opening of this department the Produce Exchange steps up alongside the New York Stock Exchange and the New York Curb market in the business of making a market for securities. The Produce Exchange begins trading in 250 securities not now listed on either the stock exchange or the curb market. While the Produce Exchange has taken up securities, the Unlisted Securities Dealers' Association has announced that it will continue to function. The unlisted association members handle thousands of securities, most of which are not traded in sufficient volume to warrant their being listed on an active market. Members of the New York Cotton Exchange have voted to apply to the New York State Legislature for amendment to the exchange charter to permit trading in securities.

Steel Operations Easier.

The average operating rate for the steel industry is now about 80 per cent, against 82 per cent in the preceding week. The United States Steel Corporation is at nearly 85 per cent, the rate established a week ago. Independents are operating at nearly 76 per cent, against 82 per cent last week. At this time last year the steel corporation was at 91 per cent, the independents at 66 per cent and the average for the industry at 87 per cent.

Iron and steel scrap in Pittsburgh district is showing strength despite lack of mill buying, according to daily metal trade. Conditions approaching a scarcity of old material are reported. Heavy melting steel is at $17.50 to $18, with dealers asking $1 a ton higher.

Embittered Europe Envious of Our Peace and Plenty Smiles When Leaguers Urge Kellogg Pact Approval

THE old League of Nations crowd is back on the job advocating for the Senate to ratify the Kellogg "Multilateral Peace Treaty" immediately and unconditionally, without dotting an 'I' or crossing a 'T'.

It is time for the country and for the Senate to examine any foreign treaty very carefully when its leading supporters include the old familiar faces of men who have fought and continue to fight to drag the United States into the European league.

There are plenty of these faces in the group that on Monday morning addressed a "multi-signed" letter to Senator Borah, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the United States Senate, urging "ratification of the multilateral pact of Paris, commonly known as the Kellogg Treaty, without reservation, as early as may be possible in the present session of the Senate."

The list of signers is headed by the name of George W. Wickersham, attorney for the International Bankers and one of the two leading League propagandists in the country. Then we read the names of two outstanding League advocates who were members of President Wilson's pro-League cabinet: Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, and Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy. The list continues with a roster of nationally-known League of Nations advocates and Internationalists such as President John Grier Hibben of Princeton, Edwin A. Alderman of the University of Virginia, Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Charles F. Thwing, Harry Emerson Fosdick and Dr. Mary E. Wooley of Holyoke College.

These pro-Leaguers and Internationalists, in their letter to Senator Borah, insist that rejection of the pact by the Senate "WOULD SHOCK THE SENSIBILITIES OF MANKIND."

Just so President Wilson, telling the Senate to sign the covenant of the League of Nations, said that their failure to do so "WOULD BREAK THE HEART OF THE WORLD."

The heart of the world has gone on beating fairly well without the United States having joined an agreement to participate in all the earthly quarrels of foreign imperialisms.

The heart of Europe, while unbroken, has in the meantime become inconceivably embittered against the United States. Europe's feeling was recently expressed in London when the dean of St. Paul's said that in a certain contingency "IT IS MORE THAN POSSIBLE THAT THE NATIONS OF EUROPE, ENRAGED BY THE BLOATED PROSPERITY AND AIRS OF SUPERIORITY OF 'THE MAN WHO WON THE WAR,' WILL COMBINE TO DRAW SHYLOCK'S TEETH."

It is significant and ominous that the pro-League advocates of "the multilateral pact of Paris" insist we must sign it without any reservation. The Senate must not tell the world that the United States reserves the right to wage defensive war in enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine, which for a hundred years has warned European aggressors away from this hemisphere.

Yet Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Minister, publicly warned our Ambassador Houghton in a letter of May 19 that GREAT BRITAIN RESERVES THE RIGHT TO GO TO WAR IN DEFENSE OF HER DOCTRINES AND HER REGIONAL INTERESTS.

Sir Austen Chamberlain wrote:

"I should remind your excellency that there are certain regions in the world, the welfare and integrity of which constitute a special and vital interest for our peace and safety. His Majesty's government has been at pains to make it clear in the past that interference with these regions cannot be suffered. Their protection against the pact is to the British Empire a measure of self-defense, and it must be clearly understood that His Majesty's government in Great Britain accept the main treaty upon the distinct understanding that it does not prejudice their freedom of action in this respect."

By a strange and interesting coincidence, a second letter, signed by many prominent names, was sent to Washington by the League of Nations crowd Monday. They presented a memorial addressed to the Senate of the United States, urging Senators to vote against the cruiser bill now pending. This memorial ends:

"Whatever may be the merits of the American position as to the question of naval disarmament, it must be clear to every observer that the initiation of a new building program at this time will inevitably imperil the wholesome effect of the general pact for the renunciation of war and will give other nations occasion to question America's sincerity. We therefore urge our representatives in the Senate to vote against the cruiser bill and for the general pact for renunciation of war."

Who signs this memorial? It is headed by John H. Clarke, who resigned his position as United States Supreme Court Justice TO DEVOTE HIS LIFE TO GETTING THE UNITED STATES INTO THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS AND WHO AT THE PRESENT TIME IS PRESIDENT OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS NON-PARTISAN ASSOCIATION OF THE UNITED STATES.

Other signatures include such well-known League advocates and Internationalists as Carrie Chapman Catt, Harry Emerson Fosdick, Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, W. H. P. Faunce, John Grier Hibben, Mary E. Wooley, David Starr Jordan, Charles F. Thwing and Ivy Lee, THE LATTER BEING THE PAID PUBLICITY AGENT OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS AND OTHER INTERNATIONALIST MOVEMENTS IN THE COUNTRY.

The Senate should let the multilateral pact of Paris alone. The United States has enough to do, staying at home and minding its own business. If the Senate needed a warning, they certainly have got it when, on the same day, the same crowd of League of Nations rooters urges them to sign a suspicious multilateral pact of Paris and reject President Coolidge's bill for building cruisers that will give us a semblance of parity with the other great naval power of the world.

City and P. R. R. Parley On Plan for New Station

The City of Pittsburgh and the Pennsylvania Railroad are engaged in negotiations which may result in extensive street and property changes in the vicinity of the Pennsylvania passenger terminal. Some time ago an agreement was reached whereby Liberty avenue was to be swung from its present course for the distance between Eleventh and Sixteenth streets, the abandoned property to be deeded to the railroad company to permit extensive improvements. Liberty avenue was to curve around the railroad property via widened Spring way. Now it is proposed to close that passage too, providing the railroad purchases property on the south side of Penn avenue sufficient to widen that thoroughfare to 120 feet from Eleventh street to the easterly end of the territory embraced in the railroad's improvement program.

The end in view is a new passenger terminal for which a plot extending northward to the southern line of Penn avenue, as relocated under the proposed plan, would be available. A project for remodeling the present structure is now to be held in reserve pending the outcome of negotiations contemplating the latest suggested change.

This is a matter in which the value of co-operation becomes evident. The chief consideration should be the matter of convenience to the public, which certainly would be served through expansion of the terminal if it be not done at a cost in inconvenience in some other direction.

Your Rainbows and Mine And Their Pots of Gold

Pittsburgh's 1928 Rainbow has pots of gold at both ends.

"Steel is having a strong finish at this year-end, showing little if any of the recession in production and shipments usually observed."

Steel is our barometer of business. The paragraph quoted above is from the weekly review of metal markets published in the Sun-Telegraph last Sunday. The most enthusiastic optimist could not ask for anything better.

As sidelights to the general prosperity of the steel business it is pleasing to note that increased prices of tin plate and wire products have not caused a diminution in orders.

A general review of business in the United States compiled in New York, also published in the Sun-Telegraph last Sunday, says:

Everything is sound and the fundamentals were never better. Holiday buying is at high pitch, since the American people are well fortified with money, and are able to pay for what they want. Makers of automobiles, refiners of oil, producers of copper, builders of houses, bridges and railroads, producers of steel, copper, textiles and clothing, are preparing for a banner year in 1929 and the high record of earnings for 1928 (the best since the end of the war) will be bettered next year.

Could you or anyone else ask for more?

The 1928 Rainbow of the United States has pots of gold at both ends.

For 1929 double rainbows with duplex pots of gold are promised.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

HOW do you treat the new member of your lodge?

When he takes his degrees you shake his hand and tell him how glad you are that he has come in.

Thereafter you pay him little attention.

You have a few friends who make up your party in cards or billiards.

The new member is never asked to join your crowd.

You think he is in now, and why should you spoil your own good time?

So you give him no further attention, and your example is followed by other lodge members.

Then the new member wonders why he joined and what will he get out of it.

He thinks of the beautiful and fine lessons which are taught in the ritual.

He wonders if the members are as forgetful in other ways as they are in displaying a sense of duty toward him.

If so, is there any real value in the lessons taught?

The initiation was impressive and made a deep personal appeal.

He resolved to change himself, but now he is wondering if he did not consider those lessons too seriously.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

I HAVE a frank friend—

He's always telling people "the truth about themselves for their own good"—

And he can never understand why this gets their goat.

"People ought to want to know the truth," he says.

Sure they should—

But there's a lot of difference in Truth—

No two people see Truth alike.

Your Truth may not be the other fellow's Truth.

In fact, it's almost a cinch that it isn't.

It's hard enough to determine the Truth about ourselves.

For we know less about our own selves than about any other subject on earth.

So how can we possibly decide what's right or wrong for the next chap?

We assume that our conscience tells us what is right and wrong—

Personally, I have grave doubts about the reliability of consciences—I've seen such cussedness put over in their name—

However, there may be such a thing—

And they may tell us, personally, what is right and wrong—

But they can't guarantee to give us the low-down on the other fellow's soul.

Consciences are not made in standard models—

They do not rattle off quotations on current morality like a lot of stock tickers—

Each man must determine his own rating on righteousness and decide what risks he can take with the market—

He grows by the experience of this right—just as he grows by doing his own eating and drinking and sleeping—

No one else can do it for him.

He must buy his own experiences—make his own experiments.

His very blunders are more valuable to him than the other man's successes.

So it is not only rude but useless for us to try to tell other people "the truth about themselves for their own good"—

For it isn't THEIR Truth.

And it won't do them any good—

And, as a matter of fact, we generally don't want to do them any good, anyway. We just want to boss. And they know it. That's why they get sore.

THE SILENT ENEMY

By Herbert Kaufman

THE big tulip tree at the entrance began to wane and wither months ago. But nobody bothered about it.

When the gardener finally discovered the cause and sprayed for terrapin scale, the damage was irrevocably done.

All the white pines on the hillside are dying from blister spread by currant and gooseberry bushes which should never have been planted in the neighborhood.

The specimen spruce on the drive has landed in the wood cellar. It might have been saved last fall if observing eyes had noted a browning tip and cut off that leader before the beetle eggs deposited there hatched and burrowed.

The four finest ashes on the property will never be the same since borers attacked them.

Regular examination would have detected where the grubs had nibbled under the bark, and dug them out before they had girdled so many limbs.

These are characteristic happenings in every bit of woodland, and this is why estates go timber-bare—and forests are filled with gaunt, gray ghosts of lusty oaks and flaming maples.

We'd have twice as much timber if we had half as much negligence.

America is learning the importance of forestry at a very late and costly hour.

Fatality comes in small and subtle packages—in mites and microbes—in sneaking, silent hordes which man must control or perish.

Cables shudder at the havoc of floods and earthquake, but all the ruin wrought by Etnas, hurricanes and tidal waves are flea bites beside the devastation stupidly permitted by a strange kink of human nature which measures menace by its dramatic aspect oftener than by its extent.

The supreme adventures of salvage are reserved for the pest-detective, the magnifying lens and the spray-gun.

And until their job is done, billions won't begin to cover the yearly loss sustained by these United States through the asinine parsimony of state and federal budgets, that lose a thousand at the leakhole for every penny they save at the spigot.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—No other human beings are quite so self-centered as the denizens of Broadway. It lives, moves and has its headaches between Columbus Circle and Herald Square. To its fortunate wayfarers it is the Main Stem of the Universe—the Big Apple and the goal of earthly travels.

Just this morning one of the sophisticates in commenting upon something that appeared in this column observed: "But Broadway has known that for weeks!" It was suggested a little coldly that might be so, but perhaps the rest of the world did not.

"Who cares about the rest of the world?" was the tart rejoinder. And he was sincere. The favorite laugh for the White Way rounder concerns the white-soxed gentleman from Okmulgee who is rolled for his wad in the "take-joints" or makes a first payment on Brooklyn Bridge.

To the sensible New Yorker Broadway is an interesting section, just as Fifth avenue, the Bowery or Lenox avenue, but for the little minds who cling to it like barnacles it is the top of the world—the axis upon which the sphere revolves.

There is a good fellowship on Broadway as expressed in its "benefits," but not in the maudlin grouping together in a speak-easy back room to sing "Dear Old Pal of Mine" with moist eyes. But it is the latter sentimentality about which they like to prattle.

Broadway is glib with its "He was a good fellow when he had it," but is looking out the window when some "good fellow" comes a cropper. Arnold Rothstein was a good fellow. The legends of his half world charity were profuse. But one lonely carriage followed him to his last resting place.

Yet it is amazing how many are victims of this strange Broadway hypnosis. The zeal of the Californian for his climate is in nowise comparable to the Broadwayite for his Broadway. He is thoroughly convinced the rest of the world, as the song has it, is only camping out.

Paul Whiteman has shown what diet can do toward hastening "the way of all flesh." A year ago the celebrated bandmaster with his covey of chins was barely able to waddle about. In Paris about that time, I tried to pick him up in one of those kitten powered taxis. He could not get in the door. His ballooning was so rapid, new clothes had to be made each month. Then he went on a diet. His breakfast was a cup of black coffee and a thin slice of wheat toast, his lunch a bowl of soup and his dinner a small piece of meat and two vegetables. He walked five miles daily. In this valiant struggle he lost 93 pounds and is now as fit as his well-known fiddle. But always hungry.

The "celebrity dinner" is receiving a new break. Once upon a time an agency made a goodly sum engineering them, but with prohibition people began to do their drinking at home. Invitations were sent out and only polite regrets came back. This winter there have been a number of them. Curtailing speechmaking to five minutes per person may have had something to do with the restoration.

Something hotsy-totsy in hat snatchers is introduced in the banquet room at one of the new hotels. A man and woman are in charge. He is in full evening dress with white gloves and she is arrayed in a smart evening frock. It becomes almost impossible to resort to dime tipping in presence of such elegance. Will Rogers was so overcome he merely shook hands and invited them to tea.

* * *

The man who invented the hat-check system, by the way, is John Leffler, who introduced it at Tony Pastor's in 1897. But what is more remarkable, the gentleman is still alive.

A large New York department store has a big sale once a month and offers a number of standard articles at prices far below cost. The idea pays. Many who would not otherwise visit the store drop in, are attracted to buy other articles and thus make up the deficit.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

A WOMAN in Boston fired her cook last week because she took half a ham home to her family. She discharged the maid because she broke a glass lamp worth perhaps $15. She bought a silk dress and when it split in cleaning she made the store give her a new one.

Then she spent the evening at a friend's house, smoked incessantly from 8 p. m. till 11 a. m., and dropped a lighted cigaret on a $500 rug, burning a hole clean through to the carpet underneath. And all she said was "it's too bad, I'm sorry."

Don't you love women with a fine sense of values?

Few girls can understand why Florence Trumbull likes being "just plain folks," and doesn't want to be married in the White House. And that's why they don't marry the John Coolidges. But if they couldn't be married in the White House, many of them wouldn't care about getting a John Coolidge. And there you are!

When you see women with their faces glued against the window panes, it means that they are trying to decide what they want for Christmas. They have already been to the slipper and necktie counters.

I never could figure out what happiness a man got out of Christmas unless he has children to whom he plays Santa Claus.

A man in Omaha informs me that he has a trunk half full of slippers, ties and handkerchief cases, representing the style since 1888. He says it is amusing to see how the styles in hand embroidered handkerchief cases change. He never married.

Never tell a woman you love her until you are ready to marry her. Then you will never have any trouble. Of course you won't have much fun either.

They say doctors are treating insane women patients by sending them beauty doctors who give them a new interest in life. They discovered that probably the women never would have gone crazy if they had stopped worrying, dabbed on some rouge, got a new dress and gone stepping.

If any of the women in your home are acting a little bit queer, don't keep this from them.
